GLOBE FLYERS OFF FOR WASHINGTON IN A DRIVING STORM

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Flying "kix" to avoid the dark rain clouds which forced them to land at noon near Aberdeen, Md., the American "round the world" flyers who left New York at 8:37 a. m. arrived over the National Capital at 2:20 o'clock this afternoon.

The flyers accompanied by a squadron of planes which joined them at Aberdeen, passed over Baltimore at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time. The sky had cleared as the airman approached Baltimore but just as they arrived over the business district, flying 1,000 feet in the air, there was a terrific downpour of rain.

Passing over Bolling Field the airman swung southward, crossing the Potomac river into Virginia and circling over Arlington national cemetery, where they dropped flowers on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

As the flyers passed over Fort Myer, the great artillery guns boomed out a welcome and the cavalry and other troops, drawn up in parade formation, stood rigidly at attention.

After leaving Arlington the flyers crossed the Potomac back into the District of Columbia, circled Lincoln memorial and Washington's monument, the Mall and the Capitol, and then followed Pennsylvania avenue down as far as the White House, from whence they swept out over the northwest residential districts.

Guns in the ellipse in the President's Park in the rear of the White House crashed out a greeting as the airman sped by and thousands of capital residents, on roofs of apartment houses, leaning from windows and crowded in the streets, waved their hats and shouted a tumultuous welcome.

An escort plane piloted the flyers over President Coolidge's automobile at Bolling Field and a great cheer went up.

Bolling Field, Washington, Sept. 9.—Despite a drizzle of rain, a large crowd, assembled shortly before noon by President Coolidge and the members of his cabinet, gathered here today to extend an official welcome to the American round-the-world flyers, now sweeping into Washington from New York.

President Coolidge had his car driven to the edge of the flying field beside a grandstand erected for the use of distinguished visitors.

The army band from the Washington barracks chose this moment to play the national anthem, forcing the President and Mrs. Coolidge to get out of the car and stand at attention in the mud.

The President stood bareheaded while the mud oozed over his patent leather shoes as the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" fell about the field.

Shortly after noon, the rain ceased entirely and a warm sun came out. When informed that the flyers had been forced down at Aberdeen, Maryland, the President and Mrs. Coolidge decided to lunch at the officers' club here and return later to the flying field.

Washington, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The American round-the-world flyers, en route from New York to Washington, were forced down near Aberdeen, Md., because of a heavy fog, according to advices to the War Department at 12:55 p. m.

Officials were advised by radio at one p. m. that the flyers had hopped off from Aberdeen at 12:40, heading toward Baltimore. The airman ate lunch at Aberdeen and their planes were re-fueled.

Lt. Lowell H. Smith, commanding the squadron, sent a radio message to Bolling Field, saying he was sorry to keep the crowd waiting but that "even world flyers must eat."

CROP PROSPECTS

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9 (INS.)—Prospects of bumper crops in oats, buckwheat, hay and pasture, average yields in peaches, grapes and tobacco but below normal crops in corn, potatoes and apples was the conditions in Pennsylvania, the first of September, the crop report of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture shows.

LEOPOLD WANTS TO BET ON PROSPECTS OF LOEB HANGING

By CARL W. HARRIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Chicago, Sept. 9.—"Let's bet on whether or not Dick and I get hanged."

This was the enthusiastic greeting of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., to newspapermen who visited his cell in county jail today for his last interview before he and his companion, Richard A. Loeb, are marched into closely guarded court tomorrow at 9:30 to hear Judge John R. Caverly pronounce their sentence for the slaying of Robert Frank.

Leopold was bubbling over with the prospects of the gambling scheme he had evolved. He reached into his pockets and drew out a few bills.

"Here," he cried to one of the reporters, "I'll bet you all I've got and I'll take the end of the bet you say. I'll bet we do or I'll bet we don't. Or better still, we'll make it a 'parlay' and get Dicky and Russell Scott in on it."

Both boys seemed more cheerful today than they have been in the last week. Both admitted that they "would be glad to get it over with."

While the boys chatted blithely with newspapermen, their parents, grief stricken and anxious, were making arrangements to get word of the verdict. It was virtually certain today that neither Mr. nor Mrs. Loeb will be in the court room. Both have been ill at their summer home at Charlevoix and their physicians have said that the shock of hearing Judge Caverly's decision in court might prove fatal.

Whether or not the elder Leopold would be there was problematical but it is expected that he will be in his accustomed place, where for weeks he sat, a silent, heart-broken man, hearing the state's attorney announce his son as a murderer and watching the "mountain of evidence" on which the prosecution said it would hang the boys, accumulate.

The Loeb family will be represented by Allen Loeb, another son.

FIRST 1925 AUTO TAGS ARE SHIPPED FROM HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9 (INS.)—The automobile division of the State Highway Department today shipped its first consignment of 1925 automobile license tags to early applicants. The lot consisted of 150 sets of tags for passenger cars and 40 sets for commercial vehicles.

The 1925 tag is blue, the numerals being gold. The reverse of the 1924 tags.

Although securing of license tags has been simplified, inasmuch as the highway department mails applications to owners on which the blanks have already been filled out, about 40 per cent of the applications so far received for 1925 have lacked the signature of the applicant.

Mrs. E. F. Browncombe of Akron, Ohio, and Miss Dorothy M. Quinn, of Philadelphia who have been visiting their parents and relatives the past week have returned to their respective homes.

G. O. P. ALSO WINS SENATORSHIP AND ALL CONGRESSMEN

Klan Proves to Be Small Factor; Rural Districts Go Strong for the Republican Ticket.

VERY HEAVY VOTE

Augusta, Maine, Sept. 9 (INS.)—Returns from 593 of the State's 633 precincts today gave Ralph O. Brewster of Portland, Republican candidate for Governor a majority of 33,375 votes over William R. Pattangall, of Augusta, his Democratic opponent. The vote stood Brewster 136,648; Pattangall, 103,273.

"My opponent chose to make the Klan an issue, but this was not recognized," Brewster said today, commenting on his election. "The Republican campaign based its appeal solely upon the record of the Republican party in the state and nation and the pledges of its platform."

Latest figures gave U. S. Senator Fernald (Rep.) a plurality of 47,097 votes in his contest for re-election with Fulton J. Redgan, (Dem.)

Augusta, Maine, Sept. 9. (INS.)—Ralph O. Brewster, Republican candidate for Governor, was elected by a majority so sweeping that even his staunchest friends were amazed to-day as the last returns were being tabulated. Brewster's plurality may reach 40,000 when the last votes are counted.

Returns from 549 precincts out of 633 gave Brewster 116,721 votes and his Democratic opponent, William R. Pattangall, 81,681.

Returns from the 71 remaining precincts are expected to bring the total vote above any previous recorded in the state.

The vote for U. S. Senator failed to reveal that any great number of voters took the trouble to split their ballots, showing rather that some 10,000 failed to vote for Senator B. M. Fernald was re-elected, receiving more than 115,000 votes to the 71,000 cast in favor of Fulton J. Redmond, his Democratic opponent.

There are forty-seven cities and towns among the missing precincts but their vote could not possibly change the result. Even Brewster's friends were surprised to find him so strong in the cities. It had been expected his chief strength would be found in the rural districts.

That Pattangall's Ku Klux Klan argument was heeded in cities and towns to some extent was evidenced by the fact that the Republican majorities there were reduced slightly over the vote of 1920, but in country districts, the Republicans widened their margin.

An unusual and unexpected feature was the defeat of both Brewster and Pattangall in their home cities, Portland and Augusta, respectively.

The four Republican Congressmen were re-elected. They are Carroll L. Beedy, first district; Wallace White, second district; John A. Nelson, third district and Ira G. Hersey, fourth district.

Couzens Inquiry Into The Internal Revenue Dept. Will Begin September 17

Washington, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The Senate investigation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the enforcement of the prohibition law, will be reopened on September 17 at 10:30 a. m., it was announced at the Capitol today.

The investigating committee is headed by Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan. A program for the inquiry will be laid before the committee at the meeting next week by Earl J. Davis, the special counsel retained by Senator Couzens.

We Have This Fellow's Counterpart Right Here; Ask Rotarians Who Is Their Bravest Member

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9. (INS.)—Behind the cold hard bark of the North Side police station Philip Spero languished in duaneville today while he held the world's record for coolness in the face of fire. Spero "passed" a policeman when reprimanded for traffic law violation, flung the torn fragments of a court summons tag in the officer's face, and otherwise outraged the dignity of the law until the policeman stepped on the running board of Spero's taxicab with orders "to the hoosgow." Just after Spero was booked for disorderly conduct, he handed the officer a meter receipt and demanded 75 cents for the ride to the station.

ODD FELLOWS WILL PICNIC AT IRVIN PARK ON NEXT THURSDAY

The city of Curwensville, the mecca of Yellow Dogs and a dozen other fraternities who realize the beauties of Irvin Park and appreciate the hospitality of the people of the upriver neighborhood, has been used to some mighty queer doings and odd vicissitudes.

On Thursday of this week, however, there will be nothing queer or unusual, although the Odd Fellows and their families to the number of several hundred will journey there early in the afternoon for the annual outing of Clearfield Lodge. The local committee in charge of the outing report today that thus far they have received 480 acceptances and no doubt there will be a couple of hundred more come into headquarters before the hour of two arrives on Thursday afternoon. The big time is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock sharp and in order that all appetites be properly whetted the committee has arranged for a full program of sports of an athletic and perspiration invoking variety during the early hours of the afternoon. The cats will be a basket picnic and what Odd Fellow does not love a full basket. Nobody will have to bother with ice cream or coffee as the outing committee will see to it that everybody is serviced with these necessities of a picnic day.

Of course it is desired that as many as can will furnish their own transportation and every Odd Fellow is asked to open up his heart and furnish transportation for all that he can but those who do not have means of going to Curwensville will report at Odd Fellow's Hall early after two o'clock and transportation will be provided. The last car will leave for Irvin Park about 4:30 p. m. so start now to get ready to "be on time." All Odd Fellows in the community are invited.

Judge Gordon Instructs Grand Jury to Stay Away From East'n Penitentiary

Philadelphia, Sept. 9. (INS.)—Because of what he termed the "attitude" of prison officials, Judge James Gay Gordon, instructing the new September grand jury, advised its members not to "stultify" themselves by visiting the Eastern Penitentiary here. "Although you may go and visit this institution if you care to," said the judge, "I think it best you stay away. I am informed the officials have obtained an opinion from the Attorney General of the state that it is not legal for grand juries to visit the Eastern Penitentiary. Whether that opinion is legal or not this court will not now express an opinion."

"This court also understands that these officials have publicly stated that grand juries have no right to go there and have flaunted their findings and for that reason for the present I think it would be better if you stay away."

The judge advised the members to visit the Moyamensing prison, the county prison at Holmesburg, and the house of correction.

VENANGO COUNTY JUDGE GIVES OUT FINE OPINION ON ASSESSMENT JOB

Beginning Monday of this week assessors started in on their important work of making the triennial assessment for Clearfield county. "This is a work that will require several weeks, and requires painstaking efforts on the part of the assessors. In relation to the assessment problem, which has been one before the public for many years, an opinion delivered by Judge Creswell, of Venango county, is of interest. It is as follows:

Venango county is determined that property in that county be assessed at its market value, and Judge Creswell at Franklin declaring that "unequal taxation, which is unjust, is the grand jury that has just been sworn in an extended opinion on the duties of those who have to do with the apportioning of taxes."

The court laid it down as an absolute command of the law that assessors shall appraise property for tax purposes at the real market value and not as a percentage thereof. Instances of extreme deviation from this were cited, and the penalties for violation of the assessor's oath of office were quoted. The duties of the County Commissioners as a board of revision were detailed, with special emphasis given to their oaths to "equalize" the valuations of property brought before them on appeal.

The court said that there has been a radical departure from what the law requires assessors to do and quote

HORRIBLE MYSTERY INVESTIGATED AT KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 8. (INS.)—Police today took up new leads in the investigation of H. B. Cole, Knoxville's man of mystery, who is wanted to explain the presence of a woman's mutilated and badly decomposed body, found at the rear of his home shortly after his disappearance.

The body had been concealed in an old wash tub, covered with lye, and had been boiled shortly after death, according to Dr. J. J. Greer, one of the examining physicians.

Six months ago Cole is said to have asked a neighbor to help him assemble a skeleton, explaining he had purchased the body of a negro woman who had lost her life in a cabin fire. Dr. Greer said that the body under examination could not have been dead more than six weeks.

Existence of a "death farm," the absence of three employees at the Cole home, and the unexplained absence of Cole's family—all these were under investigation today.

Police were told that Cole had been in the habit of burying bones in a field near his home. They were also supposed to be those of animals, according to neighbors.

MINER'S COMPENSATION BUREAU

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 7.—A compensation department to handle death and injury claims of its members will be established September 15 by district No. 29, the United Miner Workers, with headquarters in Johnstown. It is announced. Attorney Peter P. Jurchak has been named as superintendent of the new department by President John Brophy. District No. 29 embraces Cambria, Somerset, Bedford, Blair, Clearfield, Huntingdon, Center, Indiana, Armstrong, Jefferson, Clarion, Elk, Cameron and Tioga counties. Mr. Jurchak has been associated until recently with attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Punxsutawney.

HARRISBURG LAWYER A SUICIDE

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9. (INS.)—Frank B. Snodgrass, a local lawyer, was found dead in his home here this morning with a bullet in his brain. He was still clutching an old revolver

New York-Penna. League Champs to Play Our Own Beauties Here Sept. 17th

The local baseball management has arranged a game of all between the Williamsport team, likely miners of the New York-Pennsylvania League championship, with our own Clearfield and Center League champions. The game will be played at the Clearfield Driving Park on Wednesday, September 17th.

This will be a great opportunity for the fans of this section to measure the class of ball played in the two leagues.

The last time a Williamsport team played in Clearfield "our own" defeated them handily 3 to 1, and we were then very modestly obliged to claim the championship of the world, the dope made it even so. That game was played following the close of the Tri-State League season of 1907. Williamsport, with Harry Waverton at the helm, had now the Tri-State championship. The Clearfield game was the first exhibition game just two days after the season closed.

"Slim" Salce, who afterwards made much National League baseball history, was Manager Waverton's pitching selection, and while "Slim" did his left handed best Clearfield's sluggers touched him up enough to send 3 runs across, while Williamsport was only able to get to Howard Mittinger, that year's Penn State Ace, for one run.

Our World Championship title was garnered thusly on this wise. The Chicago Nationals were world's champions that year. The Johnstown Tri-State team beat them in a game at their Southern training trip. Williamsport had licked Johnstown and we then put the cleaner on Williamsport, which to our notion made manager Clyde Thompson's Clearfielders champions of the world. We still think it was a proper deduction and a just claim, but the sport writers in all the Tri-State towns knocked several keys off their typewriters "razzing" us for it.

History may repeat in the game of September 17th. At least we hope so. The game will start promptly at 8 o'clock and Rex Fauver will do the twirling for Clearfield.

EPILEPTIC TOPPLES INTO RIVER; QUICK ACTION SAVES HIM

Bert Merritt, who lives just across Moose Creek on the Mt. Joy road, had a very narrow escape from drowning Sunday last. Shortly after noon Mr. Merritt was sitting on the river bank about the outlet from the drain of the Elk Tanning Company's plant, and some distance below the B. R. & P. bridge over the Susquehanna.

Being subject to epileptic fits Mr. Merritt had a seizure and in his paroxysms rolled down the steep bank into the river. A B. R. & P. freight train on its way into the N. Y. C. yards, just below, rolled onto the bridge from DuBois about 12:20 and as the engine neared the east bank of the river the keen eye of Engineer Beatty noted Merritt struggling face downward in the river. He called to Fireman Dougherty that a man was drowning in the river and the latter jumped from the engine and running down the bank jumped into the water, pulled the drowning man ashore and immediately started first aid treatment. He was assisted by his fellow trainmen and others attracted to the scene and later Dr. Yeazey responded to a hurry call for his services.

After working with the nearly drowned man for twenty minutes or a half hour, he recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home, where he is now recovering satisfactorily.

NEW PROBE OF FALL ACTIVITIES ILLEGAL SAYS JUDGE SIDDONS

Washington, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The New Grand Jury investigation instituted by Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, Government Oil Counsel into the official activities of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, is illegal and invalid, Justice Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme court ruled today.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS WONDERFUL MEET LAST EVENING

Some Business of Great Import Discussed; Noted Guests Speak to the Assembled Members.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

The Clearfield Commercial Club started the Fall campaign for a larger and better Clearfield last evening at the Jordan Hotel with President Shillingford presiding. The keen interest shown by the large attendance was a real tribute to the esprit de corps which has been developed in this up-and-doing organization.

Some time ago the Commercial Club took up with the B. R. & P. and the New York Central railroads the matter of rate interchange for Clearfield. Both of these roads have put the rate interchange into effect but the Pennsylvania has not yet seen fit to join the two pioneers. It was agreed that the club send a delegation to Harrisburg to place the matter before the Interstate Commerce Commission in order that the matter may be cleared up.

The Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway committee with J. Paul Frantz as their leader, brought up the subject of new signs at the entrances to Clearfield. Since the change in Route 5, as the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway has been designated by the State Highway Department, many tourists have gone through the city without knowing anything about the centre of the business section. It is the plan of the Lakes-to-the-Sea committee to have the present signs re-lettered, giving the tourist directions to the business section, hotels and garages.

The Civic Affairs committee reported that the installation of the boulevard lighting system for the center of the city was an assured fact and

Re-Opening Of Pleasant Valley Church on Sunday Will Be Worth Attending

Great preparations are under way in the congregation of the United Brethren Church at Pleasant Valley for the re-opening of their church after having been remodeled and renovated the edifice. The Pleasant Valley people, determined that their spiritual life shall keep pace with the progressive development of that community, have worked wonders with the old church. Guarding carefully against ostentatious display but leaving nothing undone that is required as a tribute to the Master, the committee composed of A. B. Lansberry, Franklin Pearce and John G. Mains have done a work for which they have the thanks of the community.

Next Sunday will be observed as re-opening day and it will be a day rich in fellowship and brotherhood. Services will be held at ten o'clock in the morning, again in the afternoon and in the evening. It is the desire of the Pleasant Valley congregation that old residents, friends and neighbors join with them in these services, also with the lunch that will be served without charge for the convenience of all comers. The ladies of the congregation are taking care of the lunch feature. All the religious services will be in charge of Dr. J. S. Fulton, superintendent of the conference, and he will be assisted by Revs. Albion, Hosmer, Moses, Bittner, pastor of the church, and two beloved boys of the neighborhood, Rev. O. M. and Rev. Shuey Wilson.

The last word of the committee is "everybody welcome."

AMERICAN LEGION BAND REHEARSAL TONIGHT

It is very important that every member of the American Legion band attend rehearsal this evening. The importance of it is to be taken and the work for the coming winter program is to be discussed.

At the Penn Public Service Corporation had very liberally offered to install the system on a cost basis.

The club guests for the evening were J. Mitchell Chase, state commander of the American Legion, and Hon. A. O. Heck of Coudersport, who is presiding at the September term of court in conjunction with Judge Chase.

Commander Chase gave the club an interesting and instructive talk on the aims and purposes of the American Legion. Commander Chase made a stirring plea for the club as a whole and the individual members in particular to use every influence in procuring aid for the disabled World War veteran, whether his disabilities were a direct result of the veteran's service to his country or has developed since his discharge from the nation's army.

Mrs. Paul Stauffer, with Mrs. James M. Gallaher at the piano, gave some very pleasing vocal numbers, among them being the national anthem which

REARICK ZOO WILL BE ON EXHIBIT AT CLEARFIELD FAIR

Game Keeper L. D. Rearick, who has been located at Kennedy Park since the past three or four years, and who put the place on the map, and no mistake about it, during those years, was in town today getting necessary repairs and supplies for the ten-mile trap line he maintains and about the game refuge.

Mr. Rearick's well-stocked zoo continues to attract visitors to his mountain top resort, more than one thousand people braving the notoriously bad Penfield road to visit Rearick yesterday. At that the road is in better shape than it has been for some time. Many thousands of people have visited Kennedy Park since Rearick started exhibiting the denizens of the wild that came to his hand.

So well has his exhibition been received and so much favorable comment was given the State Game Commission over the innovation that it has opened a new field for them in the education of our people to the possibilities of wild life conservation and propagation and the Game Commission now has an exhibit modeled after Mr. Rearick's zoo that is showing at the different County Fairs throughout the State, in charge of Chief Trapper G. E. Logne and an assistant, who also give trapping exhibitions or lessons each day at the fairs.

The patrons of the Clearfield County Fair will be privileged to see Mr. Rearick and his collection of wild animals and birds in action at the Clearfield County Fair, as the State Game Commission felt it would be like "hauling coals to New Castle" to send the other State exhibit to Clearfield when it was possible to have the pioneer and originator of the idea and his very interesting collection, at the big Clearfield Fair, which opens September 23rd.

Accordingly, Mr. Rearick has been directed to have his zoo at the fair and already handsome and commodious quarters have been placed at his disposal and this display will be one of the features of the fair, containing as it does, more than twice as many wild animals and birds as are in the

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

In 1923 the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company paid out $724,000 in homicide claims and came to the conclusion that it was time to look into the murder statistics of the United States. It found, first, that our homicide rate is six times that of Canada in proportion to population and seventeen times that of England.

The company proceeded to inquire into 146 homicide cases for 1923 among its policy-holders, concerning which it was possible to ascertain all the facts. It discovered 32 so-called "justifiable homicides." Among the remaining 114 instances there were 69 indictments. Of the 45 cases in which there were no indictments, one-third of the assailants were still at large, 22 had committed suicide and 8 were dismissed on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Of the 69 indicted, 11 were never tried. Sixteen were tried and declared not guilty. There was 1 mistrial. Of the 41 judged guilty, 25 are serving time, 3 are being held for a new trial or pending an appeal, 1 has been fined and 1 executed.

Pictured rocks scattered across the American continent from Hudson Bay to Puget Sound, deciphered by Olaf Apjohn, prove, he declares, that Norse explorers established colonies in the Pacific Northwest nearly five centuries before Christopher Columbus discovered America.

Mr. Apjohn, a Norwegian scientist, has conducted investigations into the early Norse migrations for 30 years. Characters carved and painted on mountain cliffs of the Northern United States, heretofore regarded as the work of Indians, he declares, are the records of early Norse explorers. Figures of men, birds and beasts he has identified as signs of the zodiac by which, taken in conjunction with astronomical scales in the same configurations, he declares he is able to fix, to the month and day, when they were recorded.

"Astronomical calculations and records in the chronograms or signs show that the first visits were made in the year 1010," Mr. Apjohn said. "Appearances of runic letters similar to old Norse writing first drew my attention to the signs. It was then I discovered that the birds, men and other figures which had been thought to be merely carvings, were really astronomical signs."

The earliest expedition to the Pacific Northwest, according to Mr. Apjohn's interpretation of the monuments, was led by a man named Vitell, called Lippon by the aborigines. Four other expeditions followed: the first, the last led by one Knut, who came in 1362, still more than 300 years before Columbus' voyage.

"One party of explorers came through the mountain passes of Montana and down the Spokane Valley," the scientist declared, "leaving the Cascade Mountains many stone records. The earliest party of which I have record settled on both sides of Puget Sound, later moving on to the Rogue River Valley in Oregon and to what now is Eureka, Cal., where, outnumbered by the Indians, they were forced to migrate."

"Many battles were fought between the aborigines and the explorers. There are visible records that with superior weapons the Norsemen were generally victorious. They carried bows, arrows, axes, swords and daggers."

In further substantiation of his theory of early Norse colonization of the Pacific Northwest, Mr. Apjohn declares many geographical names of the region, heretofore considered of Indian origin, are derivations of Nordic words. Spokane, he says, comes from "spa kane," Nordic for "spoken." Idaho he translates from "da ha," Nordic for "is that she?" Going further East he makes Sioux

Are using these rare powders

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I did not intend to supply powders to women. My only idea was to furnish them my greatest beauty helps. But thousands of women have urged me, by letter and in person, to tell them the powders I use.

Like all my friends on the stage and in movies, I use very costly powders. I have been made to my order, and they cost me $5 per box. Our careers depend on our looks, and nothing is too costly.

But I have persuaded the makers to offer these powders at ordinary prices. I order them in quantities, under my name. I offer them at my expense to girls and women who desire the best. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Powders. There are two kinds: For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a gold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. That Youth Cream Powder costs $1. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind, it costs but 50 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better powder I would get it quickly. Any one who uses common powders will gain a new conception of what powders should be.

Let me send you a sample. Just mail this coupon and tell me the kind you want.

Constipation lays you wide open to other diseases—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Don't take chances with constipation! This terrible ailment can send poisons into your system which may lead to serious diseases. The longer these poisons accumulate, the more dangerous they become. Begin at once to free your system from them.

Eat Kellogg's Bran. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. It is nature's own way to make the intestine function naturally and regularly—for Kellogg's Bran acts exactly as nature acts. It makes forever unnecessary the use of habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, has proved successful when all else has failed. This is because Kellogg's is ALL bran. Doctors everywhere agree that only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective—they recommend Kellogg's Bran.

Eat at least two tablespoonsfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. You will like it. You will enjoy the delicious nut-like flavor—the exclusive Kellogg's flavor.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in wonderful bran muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is the road back to health. It is made in Battle Creek and is served in individual packages at the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

PARTISAN SMOKE

Tobacco, the common leveller, is by way of turning partisan. Or rather, smoking utensils are.

General Dawes seems to have started it all, though quite unintentionally. His famous underslung pipe, by its queerness of design and its ingenious and inexplicable mode of operation, awakened such widespread interest that it was coming to be regarded almost as a party fetish. That was a challenge to the Democrats and to the state famous alike for Democracy and corn. A Nebraska citizen therefore sent Governor Bryan a fine specimen of corn cob pipe, with which to offset the "trick pipe" of General Dawes, and suggested it as a Democratic emblem. Governor Bryan gratefully accepted it, and although he explains that he has sworn off smoking and doesn't intend to start again, he recommends the model to all fellow-Democrats who have no such scruples.

So now it seems to be up to Senator Wheeler to figure out some new smoking device for the Progressives. When that is done, let the champions of the three parties proceed to smoke each other out.

THE NEW COMMON LABOR

For the benefit of those who are worrying about how America is going to get on without the alien hordes who used to furnish our common labor, James H. Collins in a late Saturday Evening Post has figures to allay their fears.

In 1880, one horsepower of steam per wage earner was used. Now, in factories, about four horsepower per laborer is used, and in all industrial activities new forms of power have almost entirely taken the place of the less efficient "man-engines".

In road-building, "no further back than three years ago, Italians by the half-hundred swarmed on the job. Today they come in gangs of a half-dozen, bringing machines that do the work several times as fast and a good deal better!"

In government service there are too many workers, and much work is slackly done. "If only 15 per cent of the government employees were shifted into other occupations, that would far more than make up for the loss of immigration under the new law." This is a matter of management rather than of mechanics. The two work hand in hand.

In the south, the "darky-and-mule" type of farming was helpless against the boll weevil. Scientific farming is making headway against it, with less man-power.

In the home, also, mechanics and management are taking the place of the immigrant. Machines in the home do much work. Machines out of the home do much. Scientific planning of housework as a business is doing the rest.

The idea that the native American will not perform common labor because it is rough and dirty, says Mr. Collins, is a superstition. He'll do anything if you give him power to do it with, although "it will still be rough and dirty—running an air drill or a steam shovel is no clerical job."

There may be something in this. The native American certainly loves the sense of power and skill that handling power machinery gives him. And he likes any job that pays him enough to give him a generous living.

Work is much better done with power machines plus brains than with mere muscle. And some new kind of power machine, or improvement on an old one, is being invented every minute.

In the Courts

The Aetna Life Insurance Company, by their attorneys Kramer & Kramer, entered suit in the Clearfield county courts yesterday against the Bee Hive Coal Mining Company of Houtdale, in an effort to recover $1034.40 alleged to be due on a compensation insurance policy issued to the coal company. The policy covered the employees of the company during 1922. When taken out the payments were based on an annual premium of $2.62 per employee and was paid for originally on the basis of a $5,000 yearly pay roll. The coal company paid out $22,000 in wages during 1922 but refused to pay the difference in premium based upon the increased pay roll.

The September term criminal court will open on Monday, September 15th and District Attorney Arnold has listed 98 new cases for trial. The list has been divided by the District Attorney into four parts. Part I is scheduled to be disposed of between Sept. 15th and 17th, and is made up of 30 cases.

Part II has 12 cases on the list for trial and will be disposed of from Sept. 18th to 20th.

Part III is scheduled to start September 29th and extend to October 1st. There are 22 cases scheduled for trial during this period among which is that of Mrs. Alameda Hall, the abductress of little Billy Parker from the Clearfield Children's Home.

Part IV is listed for October 2d, 4th and is expected to dispose of 34 cases.

Of the 98 cases scheduled for trial as above 50 are for violations of the liquor law. Violations of the motor law are 15 in number, while there are 10 crimes against morality on the list.

Paul M. Swales, by his attorney Miller & Hartwick, entered suit in Probationary Reformatory office yesterday against J. A. and E. A. Moore for the purpose of recovering possession of one-half of a 12-foot alley which the Moores closed by building a garage thereon. Damages to the extent of $1,000 are alleged by the closing of the alley.

Market News

New York, Sept. 9 (INS).—Bulls in the stock market staged an impressive demonstration in the opening trading today, based on the Republican victory in Maine. Leading stocks were marked up from one to five points in an effort to catch the unwary bears who had neglected to cover their commitments in the sharp run-up of prices yesterday afternoon.

Not for many months has the market seen such extensive gains in first prices of speculative stocks, nor such general gains extending over the entire speculative list. The high priced industrials with pool sponsorship were given a sharp boost. General Electric gained about four points. American Water Works five points. Cast Iron Pipe, Marine preferred, Baldwin, American Woolen, United States Steel Etc., one to three points. The shorts were caught napping and belated covering was forced in some stocks at considerable advance in prices.

GRAIN CLOSING

Chicago, Sept. 9. (INS).—After a strong opening, the grain market became unsettled today, sagged off in the later hours of trading and closed irregular.

Wheat finished unchanged to 3/4 off. Corn closed 1 1/4 to 1 3/4 up. Oats finished 3/4 off to 3/8 cents up. Fear of what the government crop report, to be issued this afternoon might show, was reflected in the day trading. Wheat advanced early on higher cables but met with profit taking on the bulge.

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

By ROGER W. BABSON

World-Famous Statistician and Business Authority

XI.—DEVELOPING SUCCESS QUALITIES

When one is grounded religiously in the right occupation, and is associated with the right kind of people, and still is unable to get on, what remedy has he? The answer to this question brings us back again to those six important qualities, namely, Integrity, Industry, Intelligence, Initiative, Intensity, and Interest in one's work. If a certain amount of material prosperity is necessary to happiness, then a certain amount of these intangible qualities is necessary to secure a requisite amount of prosperity. Our consciences, health, wives, occupations, tastes, and friends are largely of our own making, but for the development of these six intangible qualities we are dependent upon prayer, the contact of our spiritual selves with God.

Let me illustrate by discussing Integrity. We will assume that a lack of integrity is one of our weaknesses. As previously suggested, many persons who are naturally honest will probably need to develop some other of these six qualities rather than the "Integrity" factor.

Developing Integrity

Integrity may be inherited or acquired. Both integrity and dishonesty are largely matters of habit. The habit life through fear of punishment, fear of failure, or fear of ridicule. People are not dishonest through choice or determination. People who are weak, physically or mentally, are most liable to fall into dishonest habits. People who are naturally strong physically and mentally are usually independent of the opinions and criticisms of others and hence are usually honest. It is easier for those physically strong and in good health to be honest. The way in which a child is treated by its parents and the training a boy receives from his first employer, do much to determine the honesty of the man in later years. All this means that integrity is largely a habit and can be acquired or developed if one so desires.

It should surely be remembered, however, that each of us must be either honest or dishonest. There is no neutral ground. We are daily acquiring either habits of honesty or habits of dishonesty. Considering the vital importance which integrity bears to success, we all should strive to acquire honest habits. What can one do who desires to develop greater integrity? There is only one sure way and that is through prayer. Before commencing a conversation—before making a statement, before writing a letter—repeat this silent prayer: "Oh, God, I want to be honest. Make me honest right now. Give me courage to tell the absolute truth—knowing that the truth is best for every one in the end."

This does not mean that we need to be blunt and thoughtless in speaking the truth as to hurt the feelings of any one. We should use the Golden Rule in connection with integrity as in every other connection. Integrity, like all else, can be used or abused, but we should always be honest in spirit. Moreover, when we do not tell all the truth, our retention should be in the interest of some one else and never for personal gain.

Developing Industry

Let us consider another illustration, Industry, for example. No man ever made a success because he was made to work. People do not become successful if they must be forced to work. Industry, not forced labor, is one of the few iron stones of success. But, approx. one does not love his work, what can he do? Frankly, he must do one of two things. He must either change into an occupation which he does like, or else he must acquire a like for his present work.

Changing occupation is rather risky. Moreover, it becomes more risky every time it is attempted. The willing stone gathers no moss. The willing saying-over-shoulder way it is interpreted. The young man who has correctly analyzed himself and entered a line for which he is fitted and is with good religious people should make no change later in life. If the analysis shows he should go into merchandising, it makes little difference whether he sells provided it is something which makes people healthier, happier, or more prosperous. It is nonsense for one to say he "loves" the grocery which he is fitted can always acquire business, or "hates" the clothing business, or "hates" the clothing business. A man may logically love merchandising and hate manufacturing or vice versa; but if a man does not like the selling of one legitimate product, it will be no easier for him to sell any other product. Or, if he does not like the manufacturing of one needed article, it will be no easier for him to manufacture any other article. Hence, he might just as well learn to like the business in which he is already engaged.

Are You In The Wrong Job?

The one exception to this is the man who is fitted can always acquire business, or "hates" the clothing business, or "hates" the clothing business. A man may logically love merchandising and hate manufacturing or vice versa; but if a man does not like the selling of one legitimate product, it will be no easier for him to sell any other product. Or, if he does not like the manufacturing of one needed article, it will be no easier for him to manufacture any other article. Hence, he might just as well learn to like the business in which he is already engaged.

Are You Doing Too Much?

With every asset there follows a responsibility; with every action there is a reaction. Men of genius are proverbially weak in certain ways. Men with energy and vision have far greater

Developing Intensity

The most successful business men are those who concentrate on producing one product; men who merchandise but do not manufacture, or men who manufacture and let some one else merchandise are the most successful. As we spread out, we become thinner and thinner until our efforts in any one direct line are of little avail. So long as all goes well, a man can swing many different things; but when one or more of them goes wrong or should the man himself become ill, then comes trouble. Many failures of brilliant men are due to the fact that they were ill when something went wrong, or something went wrong because they were ill. Hence Intensity of Concentration is most surely one of the necessary qualities for success. It is a quality which should be carefully watched by both young and old. The young man can get a successful start only by concentrating all of his time, thought, and energy on one line of business, and by knowing that business thoroughly.

This temptation to "spread out" can be met and conquered only through prayer. Constant and fervent prayer is the only antidote for this poison; it is the only way successfully to overcome it. "Lead us not into that tempting speculation, but deliver us from going into that new enterprise." This is our prayer. We should keep away from all people who have new propositions to offer and avoid "promoters" as one would avoid smallpox or darts.

Intelligence And Interest

This same reasoning applies to the remaining qualities—Intelligence, Interest in one's work, and a general sympathy for and interest in others. Teachers and business men are correct in saying that these six qualities cannot be taught in books. They are spiritual qualities, and as such must come as a part of our lives and experience. As one cannot insure electricity with a quartz measure, so one cannot estimate or teach spiritual qualities by mathematical formulas. The great mistakes of many writers on success has been their failure to recognize the close relationship between success and spiritual development.

(1) Success is true happiness. Success and happiness are spiritual rather than material. Hence, success can be lost or won, but cannot be bought or sold like a commodity; neither can it be weighed or measured. The sooner this fact is understood by all classes—rich and poor—the better off the world will be.

(2) A certain amount of material prosperity is necessary to happiness under modern conditions. This type of success varies, however, with the age and the community in which one lives. An excess of material prosperity is a detriment rather than a help. So long as the acquiring of material prosperity aids one in developing spiritually, so long do these material things serve as an aid; but when they begin to retard spiritual growth, then they are detrimental to true success.

(3) The fundamental law of success and happiness is: For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. This means that we can succeed only as we help others to succeed. It means that our own characters, health, and prosperity are dependent upon having others righteous, healthy, and prosperous. It means that we will reap what we sow.

(4) The structure which we call success is based upon a religious foundation. Success requires a clear conscience, good health, a righteous employer or business associates, and a helpful wife; but the structure itself is built of such qualities as Integrity, Industry, Intelligence, Intensity, Initiative and Interest.

(5) These six success qualities are spiritual in nature and cannot be learned from books or purchased with money. They can be developed and acquired only through prayer. Thus it is evident that this whole question of success is most intimately bound up with a man's religion. In the last analysis, true success is really the reaction of true religion in our lives, our homes, and our business.

who went into the wrong line of work at the beginning either by force of circumstances, without analyzing his own characteristics, or who analyzed them incorrectly. If a correct analysis, later in life, shows that one has made a distinct mistake in selecting his life work, then he is justified in changing. A man or woman must be industrious to be either successful or happy. Furthermore, employment statistics clearly state that two distinct changes in all a man should ever make. As all lines of business have about equal opportunities in the long run, his only chance for changing is an unfitted one for the special group with which he is allied or the character of the people with whom he is working.

This brings us to the question, what shall the person do who is in the line of business for which he is fitted, but who still does not like to work? There is only one help for such a man and that help is prayer. A man who is in the one of the four basic groups for temptations than those who have not this energy and vision. It is only natural that those who are the most brilliant, should be tempted to spread out too much and become involved in too many undertakings. The able business man sees so many opportunities where ever he goes and whatever he does, that it is very difficult for him to refrain from seizing one now and then. He sees possibilities in almost every person whom he meets. It is largely his ability to see these opportunities that make him a successful business man. However every man has a limited amount of time and energy, and he undertakes too much. He is overloaded and falls down. He is not able to do because they do not concentrate on one task and stick to that one task. They are like a boy carrying many bundles—one more than he can possibly hold. He is always dropping one, and as he picks that up he drops another. This brings us an illustration of Intensity.

BUSINESS TO THE RESCUE

By FLORENCE DAVIES

Some time ago we were discussing mother substitutes in this column, and decided that there were none.

But Ida Tarbell, the well known historian and essayist, has discovered a substitute for some of the omissions of the modern mother.

Our young people of today lack discipline, Miss Tarbell believes, but she sees in the office, the shop and the factory a means of supplying this discipline.

"The best training the modern girls

buying on the higher cables.

Corn started 3-5 to 1 1-8 cents higher with general commission house buying and limited offerings until the advance had been made.

Oats started 1-4 to 7-8 higher with September leading the advance.

get now is in the office, factory and shop" said Miss Tarbell in a recent interview. "I have seen hundreds of girls in factories I have visited learning promptness, exactness and consideration for others."

While this is saying a good word for the factories, it seems a little hard on the mothers.

Isn't it too bad that the office and the factory have to do what the mothers should have done for their children in their earlier years?

Mothers seem to have taken a partial vacation from the rigors of old-fashioned discipline, and Miss Tarbell doesn't believe that the result is wholly good. If the girls of today lack mental discipline, and Miss Tarbell implies that they do, it isn't the fault of the girls. It's the fault of the mothers, says Miss Tarbell. Furthermore, she believes that the trouble lies in this new creed of Freedom which has taken hold of us these days. We have lately become so enthralled with the idea of personal liberty and self expression that mothers, Miss Tarbell believes, are afraid to encroach upon the perfect freedom of their children. The result often is that those same children later have to learn control and self-discipline in the hard school of experience.

The girl who goes into an office or shop soon learns that she may only enjoy freedom within certain limits. She learns that the rights of others must be observed if she would claim rights for herself and that fellow workers and employers expect the self-discipline of promptness and responsibility.

Unfortunately, every girl doesn't get the benefit of this sort of discipline. Some of them who imagine that they are MORE fortunate than the others grow up and marry and attempt to found homes before they have learned to govern their spirits or to work fairly with others.

The result is bound to be disastrous. Perhaps if the modern mothers are taking the old fashioned job of disciplining a little less seriously than the mothers of old, it is a happy thing that we do live in an industrial age, and in an age of individual economic responsibility, so that the shop and office can teach our young folks some of the things which the mothers seem to be overlooking.

THE PACE QUICKENS

New York, Sept. 9 (INS.)—Six points, slightly more than half a game, separated the league leading Giants and Brooklyn today as the champions prepares to feast on the Braves, while the Dodgers plays the Phillies.

Pittsburgh idle yesterday had a chance to go into second place today by taking a double-header from the Cardinals, should Brooklyn lose.

Washington and New York pulled away slightly from Detroit yesterday by winning while the Tigers were idle. The Senators are still in front by two full games.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

The Giants had their backs to the wall again and the plaster gave way as Brooklyn walloped them 7 to 2 and regained some lost ground. It was Vance's thirteenth straight win and his twenty-fifth victory of the season. Deberry's homer with a man on base won the game.

Connie Mack's toothless white elephants curled up gracefully when Walter Johnson entered the box, the Senators winning in a romp, 8 to 4. The Griff men fattened their batting averages at the expense of three Philadelphia pitchers.

Ruth's forty-fourth homer with Dugan on base, enabled the Yanks to snatch a close one from the Red Sox, 2 to 0. The Bambino's wallop broke up a pitching battle between Bush and Fullerton.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At New York.—Abe Goldstein, world's bantamweight champion, outpointed Tommy Ryan, McKeesport, Pa., 15 rounds.

Bushy Graham, of Utica, won from Jackie Snyder on foul in the eighth round.

At Newark, N. J.—Willie Harmon, New York, won newspaper decision over Pete Latso, Scranton.

Gerald Rishel famous saxophone player of the "Peck Mills Band" who has been visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Rishel on Cherry street left this morning for Cumberland, Md., where he will remain for some time.

Don G. Hile and wife of Chicago have been visiting with relatives in this section for a week past. Mrs. Hile was a daughter of the late John Holden before her marriage. Mr. Hile is a railroad conductor on one of the western roads leading out of Chicago.

Mrs. Glen Fullerton and children, Punxsutawney, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Richards, George street.

Matt Haag, South Side, was unfortunate Saturday night in getting a foot under an automobile with the result of receiving several crushed toes, which might have to be amputated.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Shaffer, Brookville, Sunday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Sheridan, Ridge avenue.

The total amount of money taken in by the Labor Day celebration amounted in round numbers to $3,279.56. The crowd was not as large as that of 1923 and the receipts from all sources were not so great.

Saturday seemed to be a Jonah for autos in this vicinity. Besides the Spencer accident and the truck and auto smash already recorded for Saturday night, Dick Mahaffey tried to knock the side out of the Filbert street bridge, but only succeeded in getting half of it done. A man named Weber and another fellow locked horns with their machines near the B. & P. railroad overhead crossing at the foot of Filbert street, both cars being damaged considerably.

O. C. Norris and wife and John Hought and wife left today for a week's trip to Harrisburg, Philadelphia and other eastern points of interest. The men will try a little fishing on some of the bass streams before returning home.

Mrs. Nora Smith, wife of G. L. Smith, died at her home in Bloom township Sunday morning. She was born April 6th, 1856, hence was aged 67 years, 6 months and two days at the time of her death. She was a daughter of Hugh and Sarah Irvin Leech, and was born in Bloom township, living in that section all of her life. She was the mother of ten children, all of whom are living as is also her husband. Proud of the fact was she that from her offspring there emanated more than half a hundred grandchildren and some 20 or more great grandchildren. Mrs. Smith was held in high esteem by neighbors and all who knew her. The date of the funeral has not been named as yet, awaiting the arrival of a daughter who resides in the west. The body, however, will be laid at rest in the Chestnut Grove cemetery.

The raise of two cents per loaf of bread did not stand long in Curwensville, as the merchants who handled bread brought in from a dozen different towns, refused to buy as did their customers. So today bread is back to the old price, 10 cents per loaf.

FROM PERSONAL EXPERIENCE

Mrs. Bradford Recommends Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Phoebus, Virginia.—"Having this opportunity I just cannot refrain from saying a word of praise for the Lydia E. Pinkham medicines. I have used them as occasion required for twenty years, and my three sisters have also used them, and always with the most gratifying results. During the Change of Life I had the usual distressing symptoms—hot flashes, insomnia, etc., and I am pleased to testify to the wonderful results I obtained from the Vegetable Compound. I heartily recommend it to any woman and I will be pleased to answer any inquiries that might be sent me through the publication of my testimonial."—Mrs. H. L. BRADFORD, 109 Armistead Street, Phoebus, Virginia. Consider carefully Mrs. Bradford's letter. Her experience ought to help you. She mentions the trials of middle age and the wonderful results she obtained from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you are suffering from nervous troubles, irritability, or if other annoying symptoms appear and you are blue at times, you should give the Vegetable Compound a fair trial. For sale by druggists everywhere.

Golden Tresses for All

The girls are gilding their locks in Paris now. In the theaters, in the cabarets, at all sorts of parties, they are wearing golden and silver wigs. They just slip them on over their bobbed locks. Desfosse, the designer, originated the fad.

new work this winter, hoping to get a wider vision of the Master's work. They voted to send a box of Bibles and Hymn Books to the Philippines to be used in Mission schools. Mrs. M. A. Caldwell spoke of her trip to the World's Sunday School Convention held in Glasgow, Scotland. She told many interesting facts and spoke of the wonderful interest taken by Pennsylvania in the convention.

Four beautiful birthday cakes, illuminated by many candles, were presented to four members having birthdays during the month. After a most delightful social hour the class adjourned.

A RESOLUTION OF THANKS

The Board of Censors of the Ancient, Honorable, Effervescent, and Transcendental Order of Yellow Dogs in regular Canicular Session unanimously passed the following resolution:

RESOLVED that we publicly thank all those who helped us in the preparations for and in the arduous work of Labor Day at Irvin Park, on September 1, 1924. The men who headed the various committees worked unceasingly day and night to make the day a success, and their help was no less untiring in their efforts to serve faithfully. Many of the men should be mentioned personally, but the reason does not know when to stop in mentioning names. Many of the ladies of Curwensville and the near vicinity worked all day to help the men with their duties. The Yellow Dogs fully realize that the ladies are an absolute necessity in all worth-while undertakings.

A financial statement is being prepared, that all those interested may see this side of the day's work. The Yellow Dogs handle this money as a sacred trust, realizing that not one cent of it belongs to them, but the entire profits of the day belong to Irvin Park. The Yellow Dogs want also to acknowledge the benefits derived from a good day, as no rain or storm came to mar its pleasures as last year. The crowd was orderly and in keeping with the principles of the Transcendental Order. The crowd was estimated at 7000 people.

YELLOW DOG MEETING AT MADERA

There will be a meeting of the Yellow Dogs at Madera, Pa., on Friday

Peculiar Prescriptions

The doctor, in his desire for stronger and quicker remedial value, orders combinations he knows will do good. It is up to the druggist to exert excessive care and exercise extreme knowledge in knowing how to put these combinations together. That is why most doctors in this section send their prescriptions to us. Prescriptions, simple or complex, are best filled here.

BIRTHDAYS THIS MONTH

There are thirty days this month. That will be thirty times an opportunity for a birthday celebration. Remember us for birthday gifts—we carry such a fine assortment and they are adaptable to either boys or girls, young or old.

In Your Preserves

Natural fruit flavors and artificial flavors also. Benzoate of Soda and other preservatives if you wish. Tumeric for coloring pickles. Other colors for jellies and ices. It is all a matter of choice. One is not sold for the other but each on truthful representation.

Toilet Paper Plenty Now

It has been scarce—mighty scarce. Just now new stocks are arriving frequently. New papers in tablets and rolls, bigger than ever and better than ever. Place your orders for the winter supply.

"Dolling Up" Your Fingernails

A simple little manicure outfit aids in the preservation of the hands and the beautifying of the nails. The time required for its use amounts to nothing and the results are a dignified, intelligent, "toney" appearance.

GLOBE FLYERS OFF FOR WASHINGTON

Mitchell Field, Mineola, N. Y., Sept. 9 (INS.)—In a drizzling rain the American round the world flyers hopped off for Washington, D. C. from here this morning at 9:37 a. m. A 35 mile southwest wind faced the flyers along the way.

The weather report delayed the "hop off" which was scheduled for 9 o'clock. It was reported as "cloudy and overcast between New York and Washington with a 62 mile wind blowing at 2400 feet altitude.

"It will take us five hours to make Washington with this wind against us," said Lieut. Erik Nelson. "Our ordinary speed on the air is 80 miles an hour and this wind will keep us down to 45."

Lieut. Smith was the first to leave. As his motor roared he leaned over the cockpit and yelled "Thank New York for us. We had a fine time."

His machine moved, gained momentum and speeded across the field, rising to the air like an eagle.

Lieut. Erik Nelson in the New Orleans, swept up after him, followed by Lieut. Leigh Wade in the Boston.

The trio of planes swung around in a wide circle and headed south. The field was a ball of motors turning up as the scout squadron hopped off with many volunteer followers.

The three planes flying their famous V. formation were apparently having a hard time against the wind. They flew exceptionally low in an attempt to keep below 2400 feet where the wind was strongest, each airplane carried flowers which were to be scattered over the grave of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery.

Lieut. Burdett Wright, advance agent of the world flyers, left for Washington, at 9 o'clock from Mitchell Field.

Why It Will Pay You to Trade In Clearfield

So it behooves us to follow the Golden Rule and do as we would like others to do, and it won't be very long until our example is being followed by the others. Then many a good old American dollar that is now being sent out to enrich another community will be spent right here and cause increased prosperity in Clearfield.

The business firms of Clearfield are for the most part men who conduct their business on the "heart-to-heart" plan. That means they have a personal interest in YOU. Your transactions with them mean more than a deliberate calculation of dollars and cents. You may possibly call each other by name. In other words you are friends as well as customer and dealer. The local business man wants and expects to see you again, not once, but often. He expects you to be a REGULAR patron of his and so he conducts his business to merit your continued patronage.

OBITUARY

WELL KNOWN TRAINED NURSE PASSES AWAY

Miss Alpha Maude Hayes, a well known resident of this city, passed away at the Clearfield Hospital on Sunday evening at 10:20 o'clock, the news of her death being received as a distinct shock by a large circle of friends in this city.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Edward G. and Margaret Bruckbank Hayes, having been born at Luthersburg on June fourth, 1875, and had resided in this city for the past fifteen years. She was a graduate nurse from the Samaritan Hospital, of Philadelphia, having received her degree from that institution in 1905. At the time of the entrance of the United States into the World war, Miss Hayes was among the first to offer her services to her country, participating actively and faithfully in Red Cross field work.

During her extended residence in this city she had made her home with her sister, Mrs. Joseph Hayes-Maloney, at the corner of State street and Washington avenue. In addition to her sister she is also survived by three brothers, John H. and Elmer E. Hayes of Luthersburg and Dr. Lee Z. Hayes, of Force, Pa.

She has been a member of the Roman Catholic church since infancy. Solemn Requiem Mass will be held on Wednesday morning at eight thirty o'clock at St. Catherine's church, this city. Interment will be made in the family plot at Grampian.

HENRY KECH DIES AT SNOW SHOE

Henry Kech, prominent citizen of Snow Shoe, died at his home very suddenly on Sunday afternoon, Aug. 31st, about 5 o'clock. Deceased had been a resident of Snow Shoe for a number of years. He was 79 years old. Surviving are two sons and two daughters: Dr. August Kech, of Altoona; Robert, of Snow Shoe; Miss Clara, of Altoona, and Anna, at home. Funeral services were held on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 3, from the late home. Interment at Snow Shoe.

MEMBER OF FAMOUS MACHINE GUN TROOP DIES OF TUBERCULOSIS

Word has been received of the death of William Henry Payne, which occurred at Roswell, New Mexico, Friday night, resulting from tuberculosis of the lungs. Mr. Payne was born April 1, 1891. He was a graduate of the Baltimore High School, class of 1915, and of St. John's College in 1922. During the war he was in the 1st Machine Gun Troop and was still first lieutenant of the Troop. He was gassed.

He was a member of the 1st Machine Gun Troop, and was gassed. He was a member of the 1st Machine Gun Troop, and was gassed. He was a member of the 1st Machine Gun Troop, and was gassed.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Payne, and his sister, John and Gileon Payne, of Bellefonte, and Mrs. P. D. Payne, of Roswell, Va. He was a member of St. John's Episcopal Church at Bellefonte. Funeral will take place Wednesday morning with service at the home.

Venango County Judge Gives Out Fine Opinion

ed their oath to assess property at the full market value. The penalty for not doing so is imprisonment of from three to nine months and a fine of $100 to $200. The court also calls attention to the inequalities that exist in the assessment of taxation on different classes of profession or occupation.

These assessments are to be placed with due regard to the profits arising from the occupation, a requirement that has been evaded.

It is pointed out that the County Commissioners have the authority to change the assessment valuation fixed by assessor in any district by increasing or decreasing them to conform with those prevailing elsewhere in the interest of equalization.

In the course of his opinion, Judge Crisswell said:

"The law requires that every three years all taxable property in the County shall be valued and assessed for purposes of taxation. These are called triennial assessments. Such an assessment is to be made during this year, as the basis for taxation during the three succeeding years. While the statutes relating to such assessments were largely enacted many years ago and are generally clear and not ambiguous or uncertain in their language, from representation made to the Court by the County Commissioners and County Solicitor, and largely within the knowledge of the Court, it appears that there has been in practice a radical departure from the provisions of the law relative to valuations, and in some other respects, and it is to such matters that it is desired that your attention should be called.

"The Acts of Assembly on the subject indicate the various kinds of property real and personal, trades, occupations, etc., which are subject to taxation and prescribe the form of oath which shall be taken by assessors. The oath provides inter alia, and each so swears, that he will 'assess and value every separate lot, piece or tract of land, with the improvements thereon, and all personal property made taxable by the laws of this Commonwealth, (within his ward, district or township) at the rate or price which he shall, after due examination and consideration believe the same would sell for, if sold singly and separately, at a bona fide sale, after full public notice.'

"The law further provides that 'if any assessor shall knowingly and intentionally omit, neglect or refuse to assess and return any property, person or thing made taxable by law, or shall knowingly and intentionally assess, rate or value any property at more or less than he shall know and believe the just cash value or rate thereof, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor in office and on conviction thereof be subjected to imprisonment not less than three nor more than nine months and fined not less than $100 nor more than $200 dollars.'"

"Notwithstanding the obligation of such oath and the penalty to be incurred on failure to observe it, it appears that assessors quite generally deliberately and knowingly assess real property at only a percentage or part of its real value. A county official informs the Court that he is the owner of property in the County which was assessed at $4,500.00 for county purposes; at $7,500 for City purposes; and that he had refused $15,000.00 cash for it. This is not at all an extreme case. In many the assessed as compared with the real value is still less. In other cases the assessment approximates the real value but generally this appears to be not the fact."

In closing he said: "Unequal assessments result in unequal taxation which is unjust. Assessors and taxing officers should well sense their responsibilities. Negligence or indifference in the performance of duties is censurable and may be a crime. Of course no property owner, for the purpose of securing an illegal and purely selfish advantage for himself, should endeavor to induce an assessor to violate his obligation and duty."

"For school purposes a per capita tax may be assessed but with this the county is not concerned."

The father of Frank Huff, the Huson township man who is serving 20 years in the Western Penitentiary for the killing of his wife back in 1913, died and will be buried from his home near Penfield tomorrow afternoon. Application was made to the Clearfield county court for permission to allow Frank Huff to attend his father's funeral and Judge Chase issued an order this morning directing Warden Egan to allow Huff to go to Penfield under guard and that he be returned to the penitentiary immediately following the services.

Palatial Steamer "South American" Burns At Its Michigan Docks

Holland, Mich., Sept. 9. (INS.)—The warped steel hull of all that remains today of the palatial steamship South American, Great Lakes passenger vessel that burned at its dock here last night with a loss estimated at $1,250,000. Scores had narrow escapes from death in the blaze, whose origin is unknown.

About 20 members of the crew, including the captain, A. E. Anderson, were aboard. Captain Anderson leaped into the water and swam ashore when an explosion of oil occurred so close to him as to burn his hair. Patricia Canary, 20, a Dutch head waitress, was in the saloon and leaped overboard when the ship was engulfed in flames. She was rescued by a lifeboat.

Mrs. H. E. Vetter, Montella Park resort, had a narrow escape when an oil tank blew out of the ship and crashed through the roof of the Vetter cottage, 500 feet away, landing within a few feet of Mrs. Vetter's bed. F. B. Hendricks, in charge of baggage on the vessel, made several trips back on the burning ship to rescue persons he believed were still aboard. The steamer was one of the finest

Philadelphia Trolley Riders Will Pay Eight Cents Instead Of Seven

Philadelphia, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The Philadelphia Rapid Transit Company has been given authority by the State Public Service Commission to increase its fare from eight cents with two cents for 15 cents. The new fare, however, will remain in force while hearings are held to determine if the financial status of the company justifies the retention of the new rate permanently. The increase is being fought bitterly by the city of Philadelphia and business men's associations.

A GOOD appetite means a cheerful disposition.

You may have a good appetite if the blood that goes constantly to your vital organs is pure. S.S.S. purifies the blood—a good appetite follows and you will have a clear complexion and will be strong, cheerful and healthy.

Don't go on feeling up one day and down the next—hardly sick but never well—losing "pep," punch and animation. Heavy eaters are the red-blooded men and women. Enjoy your food! Get back your strength and energy! Reclaim yourself before it is too late! People in a physically run-down condition are an easy prey to disease.

S.S.S. is what is needed. Your blood needs purifying. Your blood-cells supply the energy which keeps your body well and fit. S.S.S. aids Nature in supplying new red-blood-cells—the same that rejuvinate your system. Carefully selected, scientifically proportioned and prepared herbs and barks make up S.S.S.—the great blood purifier which gives Nature a helping hand.

Get back the lost appetite, the missing vitality, the keen, sparkling eyes, that look of determination. S.S.S. will give you more energy, vitality and vigor and a more up and going appearance.

LIFE SENTENCE FOR LEOPOLD AND LOEB

Judge Caverly Finds Youths Mentally Twisted: To Hang Would Compound The Crime

In Lengthy Opinion the Court Gives Reason for Committing Youths to Seclusion from Society.

DARROW TO RETIRE

By CARL W. HARRIS

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Criminal Court Room, Chicago, Sept. 10.—Imprisonment for life.

Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, the gay young collegians who kidnapped little Bobby Franks, dashed his head in with a cold chisel and stuffed his lifeless body into an isolated drain pipe today were sentenced to spend the remainder of their natural lives behind the walls of the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet in execution of that crime.

"The defendants were sentenced to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the rest of their natural lives." That was the pronouncement of Judge John R. Caverly founded upon the pleas of guilty, who says though they were mentally and morally sane they were mentally twisted, queer, irresponsible, and that they should not die because it would only compound the crime if these two boys were to hang by the neck, but should be put away from society for the remainder of their lives.

It was the verdict that the defendants' relatives hoped for—the verdict Clarence Darrow, the shaggy old veteran of scores of hard fought legal battles, pleaded for with all his eloquence during the trying days of their long drawn out trial. It was the crowning achievement of his brilliant legal career. A career spent defending the accused and from which he now will retire—satisfied.

The Best Thing About It

The verdict does away with all possibilities of further litigation. It was more than any of those interested in the defendants had dared to hope for and they are content. The defendants looked bored. They looked toward their bailiffs and smiled and in a moment they were back again in the hall pass. They were also sentenced to terms of 99 years in the penitentiary on the kidnapping charge. The decision was read and sentence pronounced while the defendants were seated. They were not called to the bar as is customary in such cases, not was the usual formula—"Have you anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced against you?"—gone through with.

Through the reading, the young players listened with rapt attention, but without exhibiting the slightest concern. If they feared their lives would be forfeited, they did not show it and when life imprisonment ver-

MAY HE NEVER RETURN

Chicago, Sept. 10 (INS).—Following the reading of his decision sending Nathan Leopold Jr., and Richard Loeb to prison for life, Judge John R. Caverly warned everybody, including newspapermen, that to follow him might mean death.

"I want no one, not even newspapermen, to follow me when I leave this court room," he said. "Anyone will be arrested who does so and even more serious consequences might be the result. I shall go immediately to a hotel and leave town late today for a destination I do not want made public."

Youths Cannot Be Freed On Parole In Less Than 53 Years Under The Law

Chicago, Sept. 10 (INS).—Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb cannot under the law of Illinois be freed from prison for 53 years under the sentence imposed today by Judge John R. Caverly.

The Illinois Criminal Code provision for parole provide that no person sentenced to life imprisonment for murder can be released on parole until they have served at least twenty years of their sentence.

The law also provides that no person sentenced for a definite term of years for a capital offense can be released on parole until at least one-third of that sentence has been served.

One third of the 99 year sentence imposed on Leopold and Loeb will be 33 years. As Judge Caverly's sentences do not run concurrently, but successively, the least time that they will be eligible to parole will be 53 years—20 on the life sentence and 33 on the 99 year sentence.

Both are now 20 years old. They will be 73—if they survive the rigors of prison life—before they will be eligible for release.

dict was read, they gave no outward sign of relief.

They were smiling when they entered the courtroom and the smile was still present as they were hurried out. "Supermen" they proved themselves to be to the end.

Almost as soon as it was pronounced, word of the verdict spread to the thousands gathered in the narrow streets outside the criminal court building but there was no demonstration.

The entire procedure took less than ten minutes and 20 minutes after the case was called the courtroom was devoid of the crowd.

Immediately after the verdict was pronounced, state's attorney Robert E. Crowe issued this statement:

"When the state's attorney arrested the defendants, solved what was then a mystery and by the thoroughness of his preparation compelled the defendants to plead guilty, presented a mountain of evidence to the court and

POTTSVILLE LAD OF 14 KILLS GRANDMA TO GET HER MONEY

Pottsville, Pa., Sept. 10 (INS).—"I did it to get money," 14-year-old William Cavalier confessed today according to state police, when accused of the murder of his aged grandmother, Catherine Cavalier, whose lifeless body was found last night in a room of their home at Mechanicsville, a suburb, with bullet wounds in the head and heart.

"I searched her and took her pocket book," the boy told the officers, and "then I locked the body of grandmother in a bedroom. I told grandfather that she had gone to Florida and he did not suspect what I had told him was not the truth."

STATE TO BEAUTIFY THE HIGHWAYS BY PLANTING OF FLOWERS, VINES AND GRASSES ON BANKS AND SLOPES

Harrisburg, Sept. 9.—Banks and slopes along Pennsylvania highways next year will glow with color. Flowering grasses, vines and shrubs will hide the yellow scars where fills or cuts have been made. The Department of Highways, which some time ago announced the inauguration of a planting program, has revised that program to include the setting out of blossom-bearing vines and small trees.

Highway department officials during the past few weeks have been in consultation with the Department of Agriculture and Forests and Waters, the Game Commission, the Bureau of Municipalities and the State Botanist, relative to planting along Pennsylvania highways. Both Paul D. Wright, Secretary of Highways, and William H. Connell, Engineering Executive, are anxious to hasten planting so that passage over Pennsylvania roads will not be continuously through landscape scarred by the activities of road builders.

The Highway Department in instructions to engineers has notified them that they may make requisition for vines and other growths they deem necessary. The State will require approximately 300,000 vines. These will include wild roses, ramblers and creeper roses; the matrimony vine, shoulders."

which in spring has a yellow blossom; the kutzu vine, which bears a colorful berry; bush honeysuckle, the blossoms of which range from white to red; the yellow Forsythia; shrub dogwood, which has white and pink blossoms; spirea, with its white blossoms; the snow berry, the Japanese barberry and the liberty iris, which has a lavender blossom.

But the colors will not be confined to the vines the Dept. will plant. The engineers are making selections from ten grasses—including white clover, the pink alpine clover, the blue hairy vetch, the purple alfalfa and yellow vicia. These grasses will be used for slope planting in conjunction with orchard grass, meadow fescue, tall meadow oat grass, Canada blue grass and perennial rye grass. In planting on the berms or shoulders of the roads the Department will use Kentucky blue grass, red top, red fescue, alsike clover, perennial rye grass and white clover.

"At comparatively small cost Pennsylvania highways can be given a parkway resemblance," said William H. Connell today. "There is no reason why the State's many marvelous miles of scenic splendors should be marred by unsightly cuts or fills and naked

ALL CLEARFIELDERS SHOULD VISIT THE PARK IMPROVEMENT

Visitors to Clearfield Should Be Taken Over to Park to See What Is Being Done.

BE PROUD OF IT

Clearfield county's biggest and best fair is scheduled to open on Tuesday, September 23d and will continue day and night until Friday evening, September 26th. Record crowds and the best exhibition ever given at a county fair in Central Pennsylvania is the promise of Manager Charles Callahan and his hardworking board of directors.

The grounds will be thoroughly irrigated with the high promise of the fair as they are now in the best shape they have ever been in while the big new fireproof grandstand, with its accompanying modern and general improvements add the last word to accommodations about the park.

The big stand is fast nearing completion. All the concrete work has been completed, the steel is all up and the roof of the big structure will be completed this week. By the end of next week at the outside the contractors will have fully completed and turned the stand over to the Fair Association and it will indeed be a building in which all may take just pride and needs but to be seen to be appreciated.

The American Seating Company which has the contract to place the 2100 comfortable chairs, with which the big stand will be equipped, has a large crew of men at work erecting or placing these seats, and they, too, expect to have their work completed by the time the stand is turned over to its owners.

The ground about the stand has been filled in and graded and people who have not visited the Park since last fair will hardly know the place when they return this year.

The growing achievement of the fair management this year in the way of entertainment will be the turning

"NO APPEAL, WE ARE THROUGH" SAYS DARROW

Criminal courts building, Chicago, Sept. 10 (INS).—"Of course I am satisfied with the sentence," said Attorney Clarence Darrow, Chief Counsel for the defense, whose eloquent plea is credited with blocking State's demand for a hanging penalty for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb.

"I always hated capital punishment," Darrow continued. "I do not believe that it should be administered to young people. Perhaps the sentence is worse than the death penalty for the two boys but not for their families. There will be no appeal. We are through."

DEFENSE DAY PROCLAMATION

Friday, September 12, 1924, has been designated by the United States government, through the War Department, as Defense Day, and will be so observed throughout the entire country.

Therefore, in accordance with said order or request of the Secretary of War and the different organizations working to that end, I call upon the citizens of Clearfield to observe the day by meeting together at the Court House at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, September 12th, and taking part in the exercises arranged by the committee in charge.

The meeting will be held on the Court House plaza, unless weather conditions forbid. In that event the exercises will be held in the court room.

All citizens of the community are requested to be present and make this civic observance of Defense Day successful and duly creditable to our town and people.

DOPING OUT NEXT PENNA. GOVERNOR POPULAR PASTIME

Harrisburg, Sept. 10, (INS).—Political interest never wanes in the selection of gubernatorial candidates and prospective senators. The least cause for talk brings the whole field back into the limelight—favorites, sure-winners, and dark horses. They are all again facing the barrier.

Impetus was given political discussion by the rumors from Washington that former Governor William Cameron Sproul would be a candidate for the Republican Senatorial nomination from Pennsylvania in 1928. The former Governor is known to have had senatorial ambitions for some time.

When the late Senator Boies Penrose, who was the undisputed political boss of Pennsylvania died, many of Governor Sproul's friends urged him to resign as Governor and accept appointment to the Senate. He refused to yield to their importunities, but instead appointed George Wharton Pepper, noted constitutional lawyer of Philadelphia, to the vacancy. Senator Pepper in 1922 was elected to serve out the four years balance of the Penrose term to which the late Senator was elected in 1920.

Now the story comes from Washington that Senator Pepper will retire at the end of his term, in 1926, and the report continues that he may be given a diplomatic post if the Coolidge administration continues in power. If former Governor Sproul becomes a candidate, it is certain he will have the support of many of the state's leading citizens.

JOY REIGNS SUPREME AS PEOPLE OF OSCEOLA, HOUTZDALE AND MADERA ARE TO GET ROAD FINISHED BY OCTOBER 1ST

There is joy, large gobs of it, up in the Osceola-Houtzdale-Madera country these days, all because they have a road up through that section as hard as the heads of a lot of the citizenry but which differs from the proletariat up that way considerably, in that the new road gets a bath frequently, or every time it rains while—oh, what's the use, we started out to go into details on that road.

When, and for a long time after Clearfield, county began to hump herself out of the mud, the southeastern end, or that busy populous section extending south from Osceola to the Cambria county line was almost entirely ignored with the exception of a short stretch or two about Madera.

A couple of years ago the energetic business and professional men of that neck of the woods got busy and by steady persistent effort and clamor finally got their claims for improved highways in a favorable light before the powers that be in State and County and those who live until tomorrow evening—and you never heard of any poor dving within 24 hours—will see a hard-surfaced or concrete road completed from the end of the present finished road below Houtzdale, through that village and on up to

Madera, the capital of Bigler township, and the home of Cliff Gatehouse noted "captain of township politics" who, believing that "coming events cast their shadows before them," is even now fattening a pair of crows, which he expects, and we do too, will grace the banquet board when he assembles his fellow workers to the banquet following the coming fall rough and tumble to "eat the crow" heading their way.

But getting back to that road, we started out to say that the two miles of road making, the final connection between Houtzdale and Madera was completed by Contractor Clyde Thompson three weeks ago and will be thrown open to traffic tomorrow. It is a fine job too.

Then, too, the stretch of nearly two and one-half miles extending from the end of the present concrete between Osceola and Houtzdale, and thru Houtzdale borough, will be completed entirely by tomorrow evening. Contractors Avery & Bailey, who have also done a fine job expecting to pour their last concrete this evening, if the weather permits.

By October 1st, this road will be opened to traffic and by that time

COMMITTEE NAMED FOR DEFENSE DAY OBSERVANCE HERE

Appropriate Ceremony to Be Carried Out On the Court House Steps This Friday Evening.

MAKING PROGRAM

Owing to some misunderstanding or inexplainable slipup, the arrangements for observance of Defense Day in Clearfield have been late in functioning. Several weeks ago the authorities and organizations preparing for Defense Day wrote to their representatives here and asked for names of citizens to serve on the Military and Civilian Committees provided for by the program agreed upon at Washington.

The list of Clearfield citizens to serve on the two committees designated Military and Civilian, were duly sent in. The names for the Military Committee were Colonel Fred B. Kerr, Edward T. Kelly and William Leitinger. The names for the Civilian Committee were Hon. A. R. Chase, Hon. W. I. Swoope, Hon. W. T. Betts, Frank Kittelberger, A. H. Woodward, John F. Short.

The names for the Civilian Committee were to be forwarded to Governor Pinchot and receive appointment at his hands. For some reason no such appointment was made at Harrisburg, although the members of the Military Committee were of the opinion the Civilian Committee was appointed and functioning. Not until the first of this week was it known that no such committee had been named.

The gentlemen named for the Civilian Committee have been requested to act with the Military Committee and are now preparing a suitable program for Defense Day observance as per proclamation of Mayor Kittelberger. The program of exercises will be duly published as fully as time will permit.

ELECT CAMP DIRECTOR

The stockholders of the Central Springs Hunting Club at their annual meeting yesterday added the following to their Board of directors: B. W. B. Hawes, of Cherrytree; J. # LIFE SENTENCE FOR LEOPOLD AND LOEB made his argument, his duty was fully performed. He is in no measure responsible for the decision of the court. The responsibility for that decision rests with the judge alone. Like all other law-abiding citizens when the court pronounces its decision, I must be content with it because his decision in this case is final. While I do not intend and have no desire to criticize the decision of the court, I still believe that the death penalty is the only penalty feared by murderers."

The text of Judge Caverly's decision follows:

"In view of the profound and unusual interest that this case has aroused, not only in this community, but in the entire country and even beyond its boundaries, the court feels it his duty to state the reasons which have led him to the determination he has reached.

It is not an uncommon thing that pleas of guilty are entered in criminal cases, but almost without exception in the past, such pleas have been the result of a virtual agreement between the defendant and the state's attorney whereby, in consideration of the plea the state's attorney consents to recommend to the court a sentence deemed appropriate by him, and in the absence of special reasons to the contrary, it is the practice of the court to follow such recommendations.

In the present case, the situation is a different one.

A plea of guilty has been entered by the defense without a previous understanding with the prosecution, and without any knowledge whatever on its part, moreover the plea of guilty did not in this particular case, as it usually does, render the task of the prosecution easier by substituting admission of guilt for a possibly difficult and uncertain chain of proof. Here the state was in possession not only of the essential substantiating facts, but also of voluntary confessions on the part of the defendants. The plea of guilty, therefore does not make a special case in favor of the defendants.

Add since both of the cases, that, namely of murder and that of kidnapping for ransom, were of a character, which invested the court with discretion as to the extent of the punishment, it became his duty under the statute to examine witnesses as to the aggravation and mitigation of the offense. This duty has been fully met. By consent of counsel for the state and for the defendants, the testimony in the murder case has been accepted as equally applicable to the case of kidnapping for ransom. In addition, a prima facie case was made out for the kidnapping case as well.

The testimony introduced, both by the prosecution and the defense has been as detailed and accurate as the case had been tried before a jury. It has been given the widest publicity, and the public is so fully familiar with all its phases that it would serve no useful purpose to re-state or analyze the evidence.

By pleading guilty, the defendants have admitted legal responsibility for their acts; the testimony has satisfied the court that this case is not one in which it would have been possible to set up successfully the defense of insanity, as insanity is defined and understood by the established law of this state for the purpose of the administration of criminal justice.

The court, however, feels impelled to dwell briefly on the mass of data produced as to the physical, mental and moral condition of the two defendants.

They have been shown in descending respects to be abnormal; had they been normal they would not have committed the crime. It is beyond the province of this court, as it is beyond the capacity of human science in its present state of development to fix ultimate responsibility for this act.

At the same time the court is willing to recognize that the careful analysis of life-history of the defendants and of their present mental, emotional and ethical condition, has been of extreme interest and is a valuable contribution to criminology, and yet the court feels strongly that similar analysis made of other persons accused of crime would probably reveal similar or different abnormalities. The value of such tests seems to lie in their applicability to crime and criminals in general. Since they concern the broad questions of human responsibility and legal punishment, and are in no wise peculiar to these individuals, they may be deserving of legislative but not of judicial consideration. For this reason the court is satisfied that his judgment in the present case cannot be affected thereby.

The testimony in this case reveals a crime of singular atrocity. It is, in a sense inexplicable; but it is not thereby rendered less inhuman or repulsive. It was deliberately planned and prepared for during a considerable period of time. It was executed with every feature of callousness and cruelty.

And here the court will say, not for the purpose of extenuating guilt, but merely with the object of dispelling a misapprehension that appears to have found lodgment in the public mind, that he is convinced by conclusive evidence that there was no abuse offered to the body of the victim. But it did not need that element to make the crime adherent to every instinct of humanity, and the court is satisfied that neither in the act itself nor in its motive or lack of motive nor in antecedents of the offenders, can he find any mitigating circumstances.

For both the crimes of murder and of kidnapping for ransom, the law prescribes different punishments. In the alternative. For the crime of murder the statute declares:

"Whoever is guilty of murder, shall suffer the punishment of death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for his natural life, or for a term not less than 14 years.

If the accused is found guilty by a jury, they shall fix the punishment by their verdict upon a plea of guilty, the punishment shall be fixed by the court.

For the crime of kidnapping for ransom the statute reads:

"Whoever is guilty of kidnapping for ransom shall suffer death, or be punished by imprisonment in the penitentiary for life or any term not less than five years."

Under plea of guilty the duty of determining the punishment devolves upon the court and the law indicates no rule or policy for the guidance of its discretion. In reaching his decision, the court would have welcomed the counsel and support of others. In some states the legislature in its wisdom has provided for a bench of three judges to determine the penalty in cases such as this. Nevertheless, the court is willing to meet his responsibilities. It would have been the path of least resistance to impose the extraordinary penalty of the law. In choosing imprisonment instead of death, the court is moved chiefly by the consideration of the age of the defendants, boys of 19 and 17 years.

It is not for the court to say that he will not in any case enforce capital punishment as an alternative, but the court believes that it is within his province to decline to impose the sentence of death on persons who are not of full age.

This determination appears to be in accordance with the progress of criminal law all over the world and with the dictates of enlightened humanity. More than that, it seems to be in accordance with the precedents hitherto observed in this state. The records of Illinois show only two cases of minors who were put to death by legal process—to which number the court does not feel inclined to make an addition.

Life imprisonment may not, at the moment, strike the public imagination as severely as would death by hanging; but to offenders, particularly of the type they are, the prolonged suffering of years of confinement may well be the severer form of retribution and expiation.

The court feels it proper to add a word concerning the effect of the parole law upon the punishment of these defendants. In the case of such atrocious crimes it is entirely within the discretion of the Department of Public Welfare never to admit these defendants to parole. To such a policy the court urges them strictly to adhere. If this course is adhered to and persevered in the punishment of these defendants will both satisfy the ends of justice and safeguard the interests of society.

Therefore sentence you, Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for a term of 99 years for the crime of kidnapping for ransom.

And I sentence you, Richard A.

Loeb, to the state penitentiary at Joliet for the remainder of your natural life for the crime of murder and to the same penitentiary for 99 years for the crime of kidnapping for ransom.

By CARL W. HARRIS

I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
Chicago, Sept. 10.—Nathan F. Leopold Jr. and Richard A. Loeb, slayers of Robert Franks, went to the bar of Justice this morning to learn the payment which civilization will demand for their "crime for a thrill."

Death on the gallows or imprisonment for life—these were the alternatives that confronted them as they prepared to go into court. And the feeling throughout the city was three to two that the sentence of death would not be passed.

Meanwhile all Chicago waited with all New York and all San Francisco and all London and Paris and New Zealand for the clock to tick its slow monotonous way around to 9:30 when what probably will be the briefest pronouncement of any such involved criminal case in history to be read by Judge John R. Caverly—Judge and jury in this strange fantastic murder. So closely has his decision, written more than four days ago, been guarded that this morning there was no one to say what it might be. Only he and his stenographer, sworn to secrecy, knew.

In the shadowy streets near the criminal court building, hundreds gathered before the sun broke thru a lowering, overcast sky, standing in little shivering groups, knowing they had so much to see and so much to hear.

And before daybreak the first of the 500 policemen and deputies who will patrol the district of the court by the time the verdict is rendered, were on duty keeping people moving and watching with suspicious eyes all who neared the block.

At 8 o'clock, a police car containing the three "criminals" (Leopold, Loeb and Franks) was escorted by Chicago's police and detective department down to the Edgewater Beach Hotel, home of Judge Caverly. Other cars with a picked squad of officers for passengers, proceeded and followed it. These were Chicago's precautions against the execution of threats against the jurists' life. At the Criminal Court building, the Judge dismounted in a street cleared entirely of people and will walk thru a solid lane of guards to the elevator. In this guards rode with him to the fifth floor where he walked through another file to his courtroom, one flight up.

The two defendants also were guarded and no one was permitted to see them. Bailiffs reported them unaffected "supermen" to the end.

Your Physician Orders Milk Among The First Foods After Prolonged Illness --- Why?

He knows milk is the food which is digested easily. He knows milk contains every essential food need for the upbuilding of bodies worn down by disease.

Now, isn't it logical to contend that if milk is the food first used after illness, that milk will be as powerful in maintaining the health of the person who is normal?

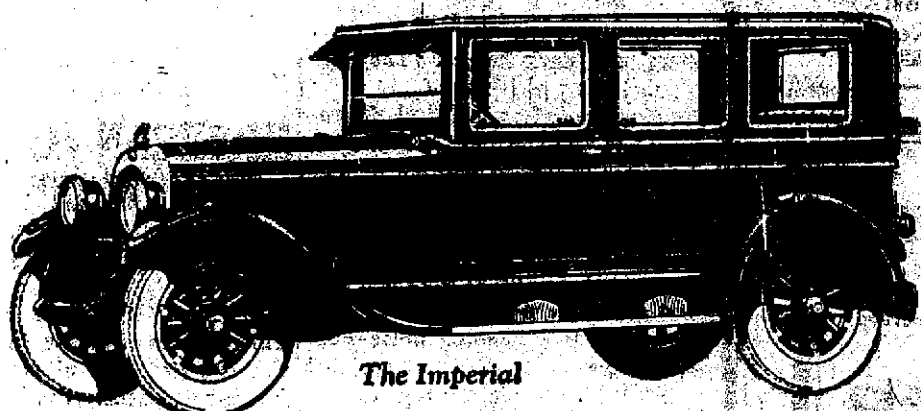

If you are in perfect health milk will help you keep yourself so. If you feel that you need a tonic, consult your physician, of course, but if you will start eating milk—chewing it as you would any other food—you will find that your physician's efforts to bring you back to robust health are materially aided.

And if you are in normal health now, start eating more milk than you have done and you will find that what you thought was perfection will be improved.

AND SEE THAT THE MILK YOU DRINK IS PASTEURIZED— IT IS YOUR PROTECTION AGAINST THE MANY GERMS WHICH MIGHT LURK IN MILK.

Tubular Axles Best Fitted For Four-Wheel Brakes

The Imperial

A new type of combustion chamber that burns all the gas and a new way of distributing the gas equally to all cylinders are two reasons why the Chrysler Six, with an engine only 2-inch bore by 4 1/4-inch stroke delivers 68 horsepower, top speed better than 70 miles an hour with gasoline economy safely 20 miles to the gallon. When you take your demonstration the performance will speak for itself. But don't forget to ask about the oil-filter that automatically cleanses all the crankcase oil every 25 miles and the air-cleaner which passes none but clean air through the carburetor into the cylinders, two big economy factors that add to the life of the car and cut maintenance costs. Note, too, the special six-ply high-speed balloon tires on all models.

Chrysler engineers have done more than apply four-wheel brakes. They have designed the car to meet the torsional strain of front wheel brakes. That is one of the reasons why the front axle is of tubular design. In comparison with the conventional practice it shows these advantages: Twisting strains, 138% stronger; horizontal strains, 5 times stronger; up and down strains, 400% stronger; rigidity 34% greater.

The braking equipment is the Chrysler-Lockheed development of the hydraulic principle, guaranteeing automatic and permanent equalization. These four-wheel brakes and the Chrysler practice of mounting rear springs at right angles to the rear axle and close to and parallel to the wheels account in large measure for the superior driving and riding qualities of the car. There is no disturbing side-sway under any conditions and you can take a turn at 50 miles an hour without danger or discomfort. Book yourself for a ride and be sure to have these superlatives demonstrated.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

The railroads are being compelled to spend a great deal of money to install automatic train control, but the sentiment is made that the abolition of grade crossings is a far more important measure. The number of persons whose lives might have been saved during the last five years by the use of automatic train control on all of the railroads in the United States is only about one-eighth of the number of persons whose lives were lost in grade-crossing accidents.

During the five years from 1919 to 1923 there had been 453 major train accidents, which were responsible for more than one-half of the deaths and injuries. Of these it was assumed that only 243 deaths would have been prevented by automatic train control.

In the same five years 3242 persons were killed and 26,222 persons were injured at grade crossings. The casualties to passengers in train accidents due to negligence of employees, it was stated, constitute one of the smallest causes of death or damage upon the railroads. An analysis of the statistics of 1922 shows that 85 persons were killed from this cause and 1622 were injured.

Figures compiled by the Immigration Bureau on the first two months operation of the new restrictive Immigration Law show a virtual stoppage of immigration.

Compared with admissions for the first two months of the last fiscal year, when the old law was effective, authorization to enter the United States this year are inconsequential. All the quota immigration visas granted in July and August of this year do not equal one-fourth the arrivals in the same period last year from Great Britain and Ireland.

The Immigration Bureau statistics show that from July 1 to August 30 this year 7,939 aliens were reported as authorized to come to this country. There were that many visas granted. It was pointed out that the figure does not mean that number of entries to the United States in the two months. The number of actual immigrants was probably smaller.

In the period from July 1 to August 31, 1923, there were 119,501 aliens admitted. It was explained that under the new law not more than one-tenth of the annual quota is admissible in any one month, which is responsible in part for the curtailed immigration. Immigration authorities pointed out, however, that only Germany, Norway, Great Britain, Ireland and Sweden have exhausted or come anywhere near exhausting their monthly allowances.

It is anticipated that immigration will grow in volume a month or so later, since there was delay in beginning operations under the new law.

Out of a quota of 24,007, Great Britain and Northern Ireland have obtained, according to the last reports, 1,551 immigrant visas. The largest number of visas have been granted in Germany the total being 1,868. Sweden has obtained 1,493 and the Irish Free State, which has a separate quota under the new law, 737. Italy, which had sent 14,716 immigrants to the United States in July and August last year, had received only twenty-seven immigrant visas at the time the last report was made to the Labor Department.

Under the old restrictive law one-fifth of the annual quota of immigrants could enter the country in a single month, and in many instances about two-fifths of the annual quota was exhausted by the end of August.

What is the matter with the world, or that part of it within the confines of good old U. S. A. Clearfield county has the largest number of prisoners in her jail in the history of the county while from all over the land comes the same story.

The following is a sample:—
"Shocked by the large number of boys between sixteen and twenty-two brought before it on serious charges, which as young as thirteen as witnesses, the August grand jury dwell long on juvenile delinquency in a presentation to County Judge W. Bernard Vause in Brooklyn last week.

"While we are inclined to believe that in proportion to the growth of our population the increase of crime is not alarmingly large, it is surely appalling to find mere boys accused of banditry, robbery, assault and rape," the presentment declared.

"The saddest part of it is the fact that quite a number of the accused had previous records of arrest, conviction and term of jail. The sight of so many girls of tender age (some of them not over thirteen) appearing before us as complainants in these cases was shocking beyond words."

"We regret that we are not prepared to offer any suggestions for halting this continuous flow of vice and crime; but we feel it our duty to call the attention of our fellow citizens to these awful conditions, in the hope that those who are specially fitted may delve deeper into the causes and bring forward practical remedies for their abatement."

All Clearfielders Should Visit Park Improvement

At night, into day at the big park. Batteries of flood lights, of 8000 candle power each, and many of them will be installed about the grounds at every vantage point, under the direction of expert lighting engineers, and when the juice is turned on the entire 35 acres enclosed within the Park fences will be flooded with brilliance and made light as day. This will make possible the presenting of a complete racing and track program at night, the first time such exhibition was made possible or even attempted at any county fair anywhere. But in this, as in many other distinctive fair entertainment features, the big Clearfield County Fair leads them all.

"Tis said the pace us Americans set is entirely too swift for a 24-hour day. That may be and you may well get that idea after a perusal of the entertainment program supplied by this year's fair, but this flood light innovation will go a long way toward solving the problem so far as this year's program is concerned and will take the advantage of old Farmer Time and his scythe by clipping several hours off these early September nights and adding just that much daylight in which to enjoy the entertainment and recreation at the Park.

The exhibits of farm stock and farm products will also eclipse previous years, while the chicken exhibit alone will be easily the equal of any "chicken show" ever attempted in this region.

A fine racing program for day and night will also feature the fair, more than 75 of the best horses traveling Pennsylvania this fall being entered to compete for the $4,000 in purses provided for.

The program includes almost everything imaginable in the way of entertainment and no patron can possibly go away disappointed.

Road Building Far Behind the Automobile

Millions now recognize the automobile as a necessity. It is no longer a luxury for the few. Sixty per cent of its use is for business.

Because of this the modern paved highway has become an economic necessity.

Yet although the mileage of Concrete Roads and Streets has been steadily increasing, our highway system today lags far behind the automobile. The great majority of our highways are as out of date as the single-track, narrow gauge railway of fifty years ago.

Such a condition not only seriously handicaps the progress of the automobile as a comfortable, profitable means of transportation, but also holds back commercial, industrial and agricultural advancement in practically every section of the country. It is costing taxpayers millions of dollars annually.

Highway building should be continued and enlarged upon.

Your highway authorities are ready to carry on their share of this great public work. But they must have your support. Tell them you are ready to invest in more and wider Concrete Highways now.

AWAY WITH ONE MAN JURIES

Clarence Darrow, shrewd old fox that he is in defeating the ends of justice and making of our criminal laws a farce through preying on the sympathies and emotions of men, judges included, played his only card when he decided to put up to Judge Caverly the question of deciding whether Leopold and Loeb should have their lives. Darrow won. Leopold and Loeb won. No good purpose is served. Murderers, who are all cowards, and fear nothing but the hemp about their necks, win.

We are ready to subscribe to the belief expressed by Judge Caverly that these boys are "twisted" mentally. What murderer is not? We are ready to believe also that they are not insane in the common sense of the word. We are all more or less "twisted" mentally, especially on certain and various subjects, but this state of mentality does not indicate a disordered or diseased mind, neither does it release us from responsibility for our acts.

The voluminous evidence in the case just closed served to emphasize the fact that the Loeb-Leopold mentality was of their own making and through it all there was a vein of sham and mockery which alienated any hope of sympathy that existed in the public mind.

Looking at the sentence from another angle, is it not true that the theory of the death penalty is not for punishment alone but for the double purpose of ridding society of a criminal whose progeny might have disastrous effect on humanity in general and as a deterrent of crime? Of what use can such as Leopold and Loeb be to society? If a life or lives are to be taken in order to deter others from taking a life the world can well afford to use Leopold and Loeb as the object lessons.

Bad as our experience has been with certain twelve men juries, that system stands out as a better safeguard to society than the Illinois system which puts all the responsibility upon the shoulders of one man and then permits a dozen highly paid emotion producers to work on his weaknesses.

The sentence will not meet with public approval but the same public will rejoice with us that such a gruesome, shocking episode is finally over and will disappear within a day or two from the front pages of our boasted civilization.

PROTECT THESE FARMERS

Complaint having been made that farms in this section are being raided by thieving autoists, the amazing story is spread that local authorities are powerless to afford relief to the victims. It is impossible for the laity to recognize any difference between stealing fruit and vegetables and stealing other forms of property. There are penalties for horse stealing and for the theft of automobiles, and the trespass notices posted on farms are reminders that, in line with common sense, there also are laws against the raiding of farms. Yet we hear from some quarters now that the taking of growing vegetables does not constitute a charge of larceny; that the growing plant or vine is part of the real estate and such property cannot be stolen. The taking of vegetables, this view continues, constitutes a violation of the trespass law only and the owner must learn the identity of the thieves and proceed in a civil action before a justice of the peace. Limiting the law in this way is not likely to make a good impression. The common belief will continue that the statutes dealing with crime contemplate full protection for farmers of the state same as any other citizens.

The manner in which the orchards and gardens of some farmers have been despoiled by thieves traveling in autos is an outrage, and it is incumbent upon the public authorities to do their part to put a stop to it and bring the guilty to punishment. A constable should be as ready to operate against a fruit thief as against any other. Meanwhile the farmers are reported to be preparing to shoot the raiders. They emphasize that they have the same right to protect their property as others have to guard theirs. This makes it imperative that the law do something if it would avoid a situation in which lives may be taken.

No police officer can be permitted to give the impression that he is powerless to aid the citizenry against any certain class of thieves.

A TIME TO LAUGH

By FLORENCE VIES

A New York University professor explaining why it makes the average human laugh to see a fellow being slip on the ice or plunging headlong down a flight of steps, is quoted as saying: "We always laugh at what we don't understand."

Maybe laughter is first aid to ignorance. We have thought that when an outburst of high-pitched, nervous cackling greeted some tense situation by the author's intention far from humorous on the stage.

But what if we took the professor literally? Let's see: We don't understand, in everyday English we can't see for the life of us, why Baby is so restless and wide awake. There are no pins, no colic. He can't be hungry or thirsty, and a bath and fresh talcum and wee, scented garments, have always before made him cool and amiable.

Do we laugh at this thing that we don't understand? By no means. We go on tensing our own nerves and muscles, wondering if anything can be really the matter, getting ourselves into a worse state of fidgets than Master Baby's.

Maybe if we did laugh, actually, out loud, as though we saw something ridiculous, the small tyrant would hush his own lamenting voice to see what queer thing Mother was up to, and in the end join in the chorus of laughter. We saw that tried once with a cross youngster, and it really worked like a charm.

Or Mrs. Knag "can't understand" why her Billy gets such absurdly poor marks at school. She scolds the boy, not a "good down right talking to," but the complaining kind of scolding for which the Knag family is noted. But it only seems to make matters worse.

If she laughed good naturedly, now you never can tell. Maybe a bit of ridicule would spur Billy's pride.

More seriously, if it's a case of a wife not understanding what her husband sees in that flighty little Mrs. X, across the street, a laugh is better than quarts of tears or a bushel of hard words. On the whole, while the professor didn't mean his remarks to be taken this way at all, there may be many times in the daily grind when laughing at what we don't understand would oil the bearings and relieve the friction.

BETTER STEEL REPORTS

New York, Sept. 10 (INS.)—Unfilled tonnage of the United States steel corporation increased 102,505 tons between July 31 and August 31, according to the monthly statement of the corporation, issued today.

Unfilled tonnage on August 31 amounted to 3,239,577 tons against 3,137,072 on July 31 last and 3,262,505 on June 30. On Aug. 31, 1923, the corporation reported unfilled orders of 5,414,663 tons.

STOCK PRICES LOW AT CLOSING

The market failed to rally in the last hour and closing prices were generally the lowest of the day. Oil stocks lost most of their early gains with the exception of Marland, which continued to lead the movement in oil shares. General Asphalt lost 2 points at 39 1/2, on announcement that the company plans to issue $5,000,000 in new 15-year six per cent debentures at 95 1/2. Colo Fuel sold above 40 in this period for a gain of 2 points. Coppers were inactive, sugars strong, independent steels reactionary, with Crucible leading the decline down 2 points at 54 1/2.

GRAIN CLOSING IRREGULAR

Chicago, Sept. 10, (INS.)—The grain market was irregular at the close today. Wheat finished 1/4 higher, corn closed 1/2 cent off, and oats finished unchanged 1/4 off.

The government crop report, generally considered bearish on wheat, was apparently ignored by the market but it was generally felt by traders that today's strength was artificial and could not be maintained for any length of time.

The break in corn was regarded as natural and there was considerable speculative buying as prices sagged.

Oats also got speculative support as they sold off during the day.

Mass. Republicans Are Satisfied With Gillett

Boston, Sept. 10, (INS.)—The only important contest in the Democratic primary was the selection of a candidate for lieutenant governor. John J. Cummings of Boston was leading by an overwhelming plurality over his two opponents as compilation of the votes was being completed.

United States Senator David I. Walsh was renominated without opposition and Mayor James M. Curley of Boston was named for governor by the Democrats without a contest. Returns from 293 of the 534 cities and towns, including Boston, gave Fuller 111,751, and State Treasurer James J. Jackson, 86,362.

Frederick H. Gillett received 89,455; Louis A. Coolidge, 54,516, and Frederick W. Dallinger 45,208 for the Republican nomination for United States Senator.

Curwensville's Own Column

Word has been received in Curwensville of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Lantz, a daughter of Rev. Max Lantz, a former pastor of the M. E. Church, the solemnization of the wedding being performed in Altoona last Saturday. The bride has a number of warm young lady friends in this place who will rejoice in her happiness of a prolonged married life. Miss Lantz is a sister of Richard T. Lantz of Curwensville.

Mrs. Daniel Newcomer, who has been staying some months in Virginia with a daughter, has returned to Curwensville and is now at the home of another daughter, Mrs. William A. Dale. Here she will probably spend the winter months.

Borough Council failed to hold its regular September session so far. A meeting was called for Monday night, but as only three of the members of that body responded, not making a lawful quorum, nothing was done in the way of business. There will be no session now until the 17th, unless President Ralph Hess should call an extra session.

According to Saturday's Altoona Mirror it is noted that Prof. H. J. Barrow, a former principal of Curwensville schools, now holding the same responsible position in Hollidaysburg public schools, has received an advance of $300 in salary. Heretofore he was paid $2700. Curwensville people are interested in the welfare of the professor, as he married one of the town's brightest young ladies in the person of Miss Mary Reesman, who for a number of years was one of the instructors in our schools. Congratulations, professor.

Mike Cassidy is continually adding comforts and conveniences for tourists and campers who visit his Wildwood Park along the state highway between Stronach and Bridgeport. He has had his buildings wired for electric lights, and added two large automatic gas tanks. Within the five months past over two thousand persons have registered as visitors, and by actual count Cassidy has tabbed cars from every state in the Union.

The new Anderson creek concrete bridge will be completed and receive the finishing touches today. It will be opened to travel about the middle of October, or perhaps sooner. The way will be open next week, and the temporary foot walk will be removed and the lumber used in other rough work. A general inspection of the new bridge will be made by Council and Commissioners within a few days.

All of the coal mines along the river between Curwensville and Mahaffey are getting into their old stride of operation. The West Branch and M. and M. companies are working almost full time, and the Bowers mine near Lumbertown is loading from 8 to 12 cars per week.

Frank Isban made a speech on the corner of State and Filbert streets Monday evening. His talk was chiefly along the line of La Follette and socialism which did not seem to interest his small audience to any great extent.

Howard Thompson went over to Hollidaysburg today to attend a directors' meeting at the penitentiary, going afterward to Huntingdon on business.

Miss Marjorie Murray will leave a few days for Williamsport, where she will enter as a winter student at a commercial school.

Miss Jessie Pifer has gone up into the "Irish settlement," Penn township, where she has been engaged to teach one of the rural schools.

PENNSY-GRAMS

Pittsburgh.—Mrs. J. J. Newman, mother of Pauline J. Newman, 16, who has been missing for more than a week, has offered $100 for return of her daughter. Nothing has been heard from the high school student since she left September 3.

Pittsburgh.—Hotel managers, cabaret proprietors and owners of all other kinds of "eat" places are shooting on this morning the knives, forks, spoons and other silverware returned to them last night by the service superintendent of a hotel here. The 2,000 pieces of "silverware" were recovered by the superintendent who offered a bonus to garbage collectors to keep an eye on garbage cans for the eating utensils.

Philadelphia.—An injunction may be sought by the city of Philadelphia to prevent the Rapid Transit Company from putting into effect the temporary fare increase granted it by the State Public Service Commission.

Philadelphia.—Police last night arrested John Barr, 33, charging him with being the leader of a bandit gang which has stolen nearly $300,000 in money and valuables during the past four years. He was arrested on evidence supplied by Peter Ott, claims to be a former member of now in the Eastern Penitentiary, who Barr's gang.

Greensburg.—Investigation is being made here today to determine the cause of the fire that destroyed the warehouse of Wilson and Co. Meat Packers yesterday. The loss was estimated at $50,000.

Youthful Media Mother Shoots Foster Brother Who Attempts Attack

Media, Pa., Sept. 10. (INS.)—Because she said he attempted to attack her, Janet Smalley, 17, shot and seriously wounded her foster brother, Eugene Herman, at their home in Erdenheim, a suburb, last night. They were alone in the house at the time.

The girl told police Herman threw her the revolver and shouted "Shoot me," after she had repulsed him once. The pistol landed on the crib of her three-year-old baby and when he tried to approach her again, Miss Smalley said she snatches it up and fired. She then telephoned the police who captured Herman.

The man was adopted by the Smalley family when a youngster. Miss Smalley was married but has used her maiden name since the death of her husband, a world war veteran.

The Airveyor.

The "airveyor" is a pipe-line system which conveys grain from an elevator to a vessel at the water front without the use of the familiar belting. Operated by a hurricane of wind forced through a pipe by giant fans, it will load 4,000 bushels an hour.

Joy Reigns Supreme

Houtzdale and her environs will be on the "hard road" to every one of the five improved routes across the State and everywhere else, for that matter, which is the cause of so much joy among the Houtzdales.

Didn't Waste Money On Food

"The recent campaign against wastefulness in eating did not affect me much as I haven't been able to eat anything but toast and tea for the past five years. Even that would create gas and cause me distress. My weight was down to eighty-four pounds and my complexion muddy. I had frequent pains in the region of my appendix. I am glad I did not listen to an operation, as Mayr's Wonderful Remedy has made a new woman of me. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists.

FARM CENSUS MUST BE TAKEN

Winter wheat . . . Rye . . . Corn for silage . . . Buckwheat . . . Potatoes . . . Tobacco; All tame hay, except alfalfa . . . Alfalfa hay . . . Number apple trees bearing age . . . Number apple trees, non-bearing age . . . Number of peach trees, bearing age . . . Livestock on farm . . . Horses, all ages . . . Mules, all ages . . . Number dairy cows, two years old and over . . . Is farm equipped with electricity? . . . Individual plant, (answer yes or no) . . . From central station (answer yes or no) . . . Has farm a radio outfit? (Answer yes or no) . . . The information thus derived is very important to the agricultural development of the state, as it will mean accurate information that is hard to obtain otherwise. It will be especially beneficial to the farmers, and in no ways a detriment to him. It will mean additional work to the assessor, and can be made a great deal easier for the assessor, saving both his time and that of the farmer if each farmer would clip this article from his paper and fill it in to the best of his ability, so that when the assessor comes around he can copy the same off with very little loss of time. The information derived, according to Secretary of Agriculture, Willis H. Harrisburg, is to be treated as strictly confidential. The filled in blanks will be returned to the Secretary of Agriculture and will have no connection with any taxation measures. Similar laws are now in operation in seventeen other agricultural states.

Pres. Commends the Men Who Bring Aerial Glory To Good Old U. S. First

Washington, Sept. 10.—The U. S. Army round the world flyers will stay over in Washington for the Defense Day activities on Friday, leaving for Paris and the west on Saturday. Secretary of War Weeks announced today.

Re-LUTHER A. HUSTON

L. N. S. Staff Correspondent. Washington, Sept. 10.—The United States army round the world flyers were up with the sun this morning. War department automobiles awaited them at the New Willard Hotel and they were carried to Bolling Field to inspect the airplanes that have carried them almost all the way around the globe and to make preparations for their hop off tomorrow to Dayton.

Only two of the ships were at Bolling Field this morning—the Chicago, of Lieutenant Smith, and Lieutenant Leslie P. Arnold and the Boston of Lieut. Leigh Wade and Lieut. Henry O'Brien.

Lieut. Erik Nelson's New Orleans is parked between Baltimore and Washington, Nelson having forged down near Half Thorpe, Maryland, by stripping timing gears. Lieut. John Harding, Jr., was left with the New Orleans during the night, and a new engine is to be sent out today from Bolling Field so that Nelson can fly the ship into Washington this afternoon.

Lt. Smith said this morning that he thought everything would be in readiness for the flyers to hop off from Washington Thursday morning, arriving in Dayton that afternoon and in Chicago on Friday afternoon. The tentative schedule now being followed will bring the circumnavigation of the globe to a conclusion about Sept. 20, at Seattle—ten days from today. Stops will be made after Chicago, at St. Joseph, Mo.; Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and Sacramento. In a formal statement of welcome to the flyers, President Coolidge said that a "new record of achievement had been made in the past six months in the domain of aviation. "It has been your skill, your perseverance, your courage that has brought this great honor to our country. In what is probably the greatest opportunity for future scientific development of transportation your enterprise has made America first. I trust the appreciation of your countrymen will be sufficient so that in this field America always will be kept first."

SPECIAL SERVICE AT LUTHERAN CHURCH TONIGHT

The "Quiet Hour" at St. John's Lutheran church will be of unusual interest this evening. The message will be brought by Henry Latsch, one of our students at Gettysburg College. Henry will have a helpful message and we want you to hear that message. Show your interest in this young man by being present. A special message and a special offering for a special cause. Come and bring a friend.

Taking Her Back.

After the young thing at the party had concluded her second encore the old lady leaned toward her and said: "Thank you so much for your songs, my dear. They took me back to childhood days on my father's farm. There were times, when you sang, that I could shut my eyes and fairly hear the old front gate creaking in the wind."

Wives vs. Husbands.

A well-known novelist said to the bride at a wedding breakfast: "Remember, my dear young lady, as the years pass by and the burden grows heavier—remember that wives were made to suffer and husbands to be suffered."—Boston Transcript.

To Lloyd Hummel, Respondent:
Whereas, Ethel Hummel, your wife, has filed a libel in the Court of Common Pleas of Clearfield County, praying for a divorce from you to which a return of "not in the County" was made by the Sheriff and an alias writ issued to which a like return was made; now therefore you are hereby notified and required to appear in said Court on Monday, the 6th day of October next, to answer the complaint of the said Ethel Hummel, and in default of such appearance you will be liable to have a divorce granted in your absence.
THOS. J. LOWELL, Sheriff,
Clearfield County.
Sheriff's Office, Sept. 2, 1924. 9/2/10/17/24

AN ORDINANCE
Authorizing the extension of the sewer on West Cherry Street, in the Second Ward of the Borough of Clearfield, Pennsylvania, in a westerly direction from its present terminus on the West Side of the Clearfield and Mahoning Railroad along the line between the lot of Gearhart Knitting Machine Company and the lot of Margaret Stage to Gulch Avenue.

Be it ordained by the Council of the Borough of Clearfield in Council regularly assembled and it is hereby ordained and enacted by authority of the same:

Section 1. That the sewer on West Cherry Street in the Second Ward of the Borough of Clearfield be extended from its present terminus on the West Side of the Clearfield and Mahoning Railroad in a westerly direction along the line between the lot of Gearhart Knitting Machine Company and the lot of Margaret Stage to Gulch Avenue, and that said extension be constructed of terra cotta pipe not less than twenty-four inches in diameter.

Section 2. The Sewer Committee of Council is hereby authorized and empowered to lay out, build and construct said sewer under the direction and supervision of the Borough Engineer, and when said sewer is constructed it shall become part of one of the public sewers of said Borough and shall be subject to all the rules and regulations for the control of the sewerage system of the Borough of Clearfield.

Ordained and enacted this fourth day of September, A. D. 1924.
GEORGE M. ROSSER,
President of Clearfield Borough Council Attest.

J. D. CONNELLY, Secretary.
Examined and approved this ninth day of September, A. D. 1924.

DOPING OUT NEXT PENNA. GOVERNOR

backing of powerful political influences in Pennsylvania.

Two other men are said to have senatorial ambitions. One is Congressman William S. Vare, head of the powerful Philadelphia machine, who became rather incensed with Governor Sprout in 1921 when he was not appointed to the Penrose vacancy. Vare is said to be willing to be a candidate in 1926.

The other is Governor Gifford Pinchot. The Pennsylvania Governor is said to be laying his political lines for entrance into the Senate fight.

Two years ago the Republican organization in Pennsylvania went to the rocks because it had too many candidates for Governor who persisted in staying in the race until the last minute. The late withdrawal of the candidates made a harmonious organization impossible and Governor Pinchot won the nomination.

Two years hence the Organization may face a similar fate. Already candidates for the gubernatorial nomination are appearing. Friends of Secretary of Labor James J. Davis have been boosting him for the nomination. In Pittsburgh former Mayor E. V. Babcock and Joseph F. Armstrong are mentioned.

Former State Banking Commissioner John T. Fisher, who withdrew as candidate two years ago, still appears to have the gubernatorial bee. While former Lieutenant Governor E. E. Bridleman, who also withdrew two years ago, may shy his castor into the ring again.

Others mentioned include Cyrus E. Wood, recent ambassador to Japan; T. Henry Walnut, State Workmen's Compensation chairman; Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick and former Judge John M. Patterson, of Philadelphia, and Secretary of the State Clyde M. King.

Among active party workers a strong sentiment is developing for W. Harry Baker, Republican State Chairman and for many years secretary of State Senate and of the Republican State Committee. Baker has never been an aspirant for office, but if he became a candidate would do more than any other man to solidify the organization.

Give Him Time.

Favor American Balloons
American to balloons are practically the only ones sold in Great Britain, because of the varieties of colors furnished by manufacturers of this country.

Scaring Evil Spirits
In many parts of South America wooden crosses are still erected on the outskirts of the towns and villages to frighten away evil spirits.

Improvement.
The rowing coach of Blank college had a very sharp tongue. A member of the crew who had got into it through favoritism said to him: "Do you think it would improve my style if I were to acquire a fast stroke?" "It would improve the crew," replied the coach. "If you got a lightning stroke."

Seven Points of Supremacy
1. The sole leather used in "FOOT-FITTERS" is of the best quality obtainable. 2. The "FOOT-FITTERS" are cut from standard outsole leather. 3. The "FOOT-FITTERS" are the only shoes in the world having full length vamp and sole leather wax treated. This feature prevents slipping at the tip and makes a smooth outer and inner surface. 4. The "FOOT-FITTERS" are shoulder channelled so that they fit tightly against the instep. There is no need of room for a cork filler. A small piece of cork is used to prevent squeaking. 5. The "FOOT-FITTERS" inside contour pocket is of great value, for it saves the wear in the socks. This is no rough surface to run against. 6. "FOOT-FITTERS" heels are 3/4 inch higher than generally used. They give additional support to the arch and increase the comfort and wear of the shoe. 7. The vamp is reinforced with 3-oz. duck. This works the moisture from the foot, thus keeps the vamp from cracking and holds the shoe in shape. 8. "FOOT-FITTERS" shoes are called "FOOT-FITTERS" because they give the foot support. This support is the foundation of the foot. The foot is a balance—"FOOT-FITTERS" give to it. Balance and Appearance.

SPORTS

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Boston.—Kid Norfolk, New York, outpointed Battling McCreary, Boston, ten rounds. Lew Paluso, Salt Lake City, won judge's decision over Billy Murphy, Lowell, Mass.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 10. (INS.)—By means of a smash to the head with his right, Young Strizling, Georgia light heavyweight, knocked out Glen Clickner, 30, Zanesville, in the second round here last night.

Although Clickner managed to hit Strizling two or three times, the blows seemingly made no impression on the Georgian.

TAGGING ALL THE BASES

The Yanks made hay while the sun was not shining for Washington and gained half a game on the Senators by losing out the Red Sox in the ninth 5 to 4. Joe Bush starred for the second day in succession by driving in the winning runs with a pinch double.

A loud explosion was heard in St. Louis as the Pirates flattered sadly, the Cards taking two games, 7 to 4 and 6 to 4. Sothern and Stuart were poison to the Corsairs.

The Tigers stretched their winning streak to seven by trimming the White Sox, 7 to 3. The Cobb men are now four and one-half games behind the Senators.

The Cubs crawled a game closer to the first division, defeating the Reds 4 to 3 on O'Farrell's homer. Alexander failed to whiff a batter, but kept Cincinnati's hits scattered.

KARTHAUS BEATS GRASSFLAT

Friday afternoon the Karthaus baseball team handed another defeat to the strong Grassflat Club who were reinforced by several of the Phillipsburg C. & C. League players. The game was played at Karthaus after a heavy rain but despite this fact a fast game was staged and Grassflat was defeated 3 to 2 in seven innings.

This did not quite satisfy the Grassflat players who are looking for revenge and another game. They are a good ball club but not quite equal to the fast all-around work of the Karthaus players who will play them at either Snow-hoe or Phillipsburg to prove that they are their superiors.

Following is the box score:

|              | Grassflat | Karthaus  |

ALL WORN OUT?

So Was Mrs. Bruner Who Tells Her Experience.

Are you tired all the time; worn-out night and day? Does your back ache as if it would break? Do you suffer dizziness, headaches, rheumatic twinges or distressing urinary disorders? You have good cause then to be alarmed about your kidneys. Do as many of your townfolk recommend. Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. This Clearfield case is convincing: Mrs. M. M. Bruner, 112 W. Third Ave., says: "My kidneys got out of order and acted too frequently. There was a dull, bearing down pain in my back which was worse when I stooped because I got a sharp kick. It was hard to straighten. Mornings my back was lame and sore. I was bothered with dizzy spells, too. Doan's Pills stopped the backache and relieved me of the trouble." Get at all dealers. ## LISCHERELLA DEFEATS BLAKE SHUGARTS IN HORSE SHOE PITCHING

James Lischerella found his form at last and succeeded in winning his match from Blake Shugarts in the Contest for the Championship of Clearfield's Horse Shoe Pitching enthusiasts. The score:

|             | Pts | Ring | Dbls | Shoes |
|-------------|-----|------|------|-------|
| B. Shugarts | 25  | 3    | 58   |       |
| Lischerella | 50  | 15   | 4    | 48    |

The heavy rains postponed the game scheduled for last evening and one of these matches will be played off Thursday night at 6:30, at which time the contests will be between the following:

E. Schiefer and W. Witherow. L. Cowdrick and J. Lischerella.

The men who are interested in horse shoe pitching are urged to practice every evening at the community courts in Witmer Park, the lights being turned on at dusk and the shoes can be thrown until nine o'clock.

FIRPO 6 TO FAVORITE

New York, Sept. 10. (INS.)—It was estimated today by a firm of local betting commissioners that wagers totaling more than $300,000 would be made on the outcome of the Willis-Firpo bout at Jersey City tomorrow night. More than $150,000 was placed yesterday at odds of 6 to 5, in Firpo's favor, the firm estimated.

HIGH FOOTBALL TEAM QUICKLY GETTING IN SHAPE

Clearfield High's football squad is commencing to bear down on their advanced work, and altho it is nearly three weeks before the initial struggle the Red and Black prospects look good. Coach Reed has picked his varsity team and is sending them thru in fine style while Coach Steele is putting his strong little second team "over the jumps" like speed.

The "big uns" show a little more weight than last year's first team, and last season's experiences have done them a world of good. This year's backfield is not much heavier than last year's but the line has gained considerable in poundage. At the center position Mann of last season's varsity will be stationed at present with Hughes or Davis being able to handle it in case of need. The sentry posts are now occupied by Hughes and Dale, both lettermen, while the former is showing good football all-around. Thurston and Witherow are playing regular tackles. Both of these fellows were members of last season's varsity and should be of no little advantage to the team. At the flanks Mohny, Johnston and Davis are in a dead heat for the positions, altho Mohny and Davis are favored, Johnston's size being against him. In the backfield last season's trio of backfield stars are established Mitchell, Earnie and Wilson, while Bowes, a new comer, is holding down the fourth place in fine style.

Thus far in the preliminary work-out many things have been dwelt upon, from handling points and passes to hitting the "sawdust griddle." The entire team is already clipping and tackling in fine style with some fellows hitting the dummy so hard it has pulverized the sawdust. The backfield is using the bucking harness with fine success, practicing charging and ripping holes and several real plungers are in sight. One casualty has so far been chalked up but the injury was very slight and the injured should be out in uniform before the week end.

SPORTSMEN'S MEETING

The State Center Game, Fish, and Forestry Association will hold a meeting at Bigler tonight and at Woodland Thursday evening. Both meetings will be called for 8 o'clock.

A number of speakers will explain to the sportsmen just what the association is accomplishing and expects to do. Although the State Center Game, Fish, and Forestry Association is only two months old, it already has 600 members and is enrolling members at a rapid rate. It is going to be a big help in improving hunting and fishing conditions in Clearfield and Center counties. This association expects to reach the thousand mark in the next 30 days.

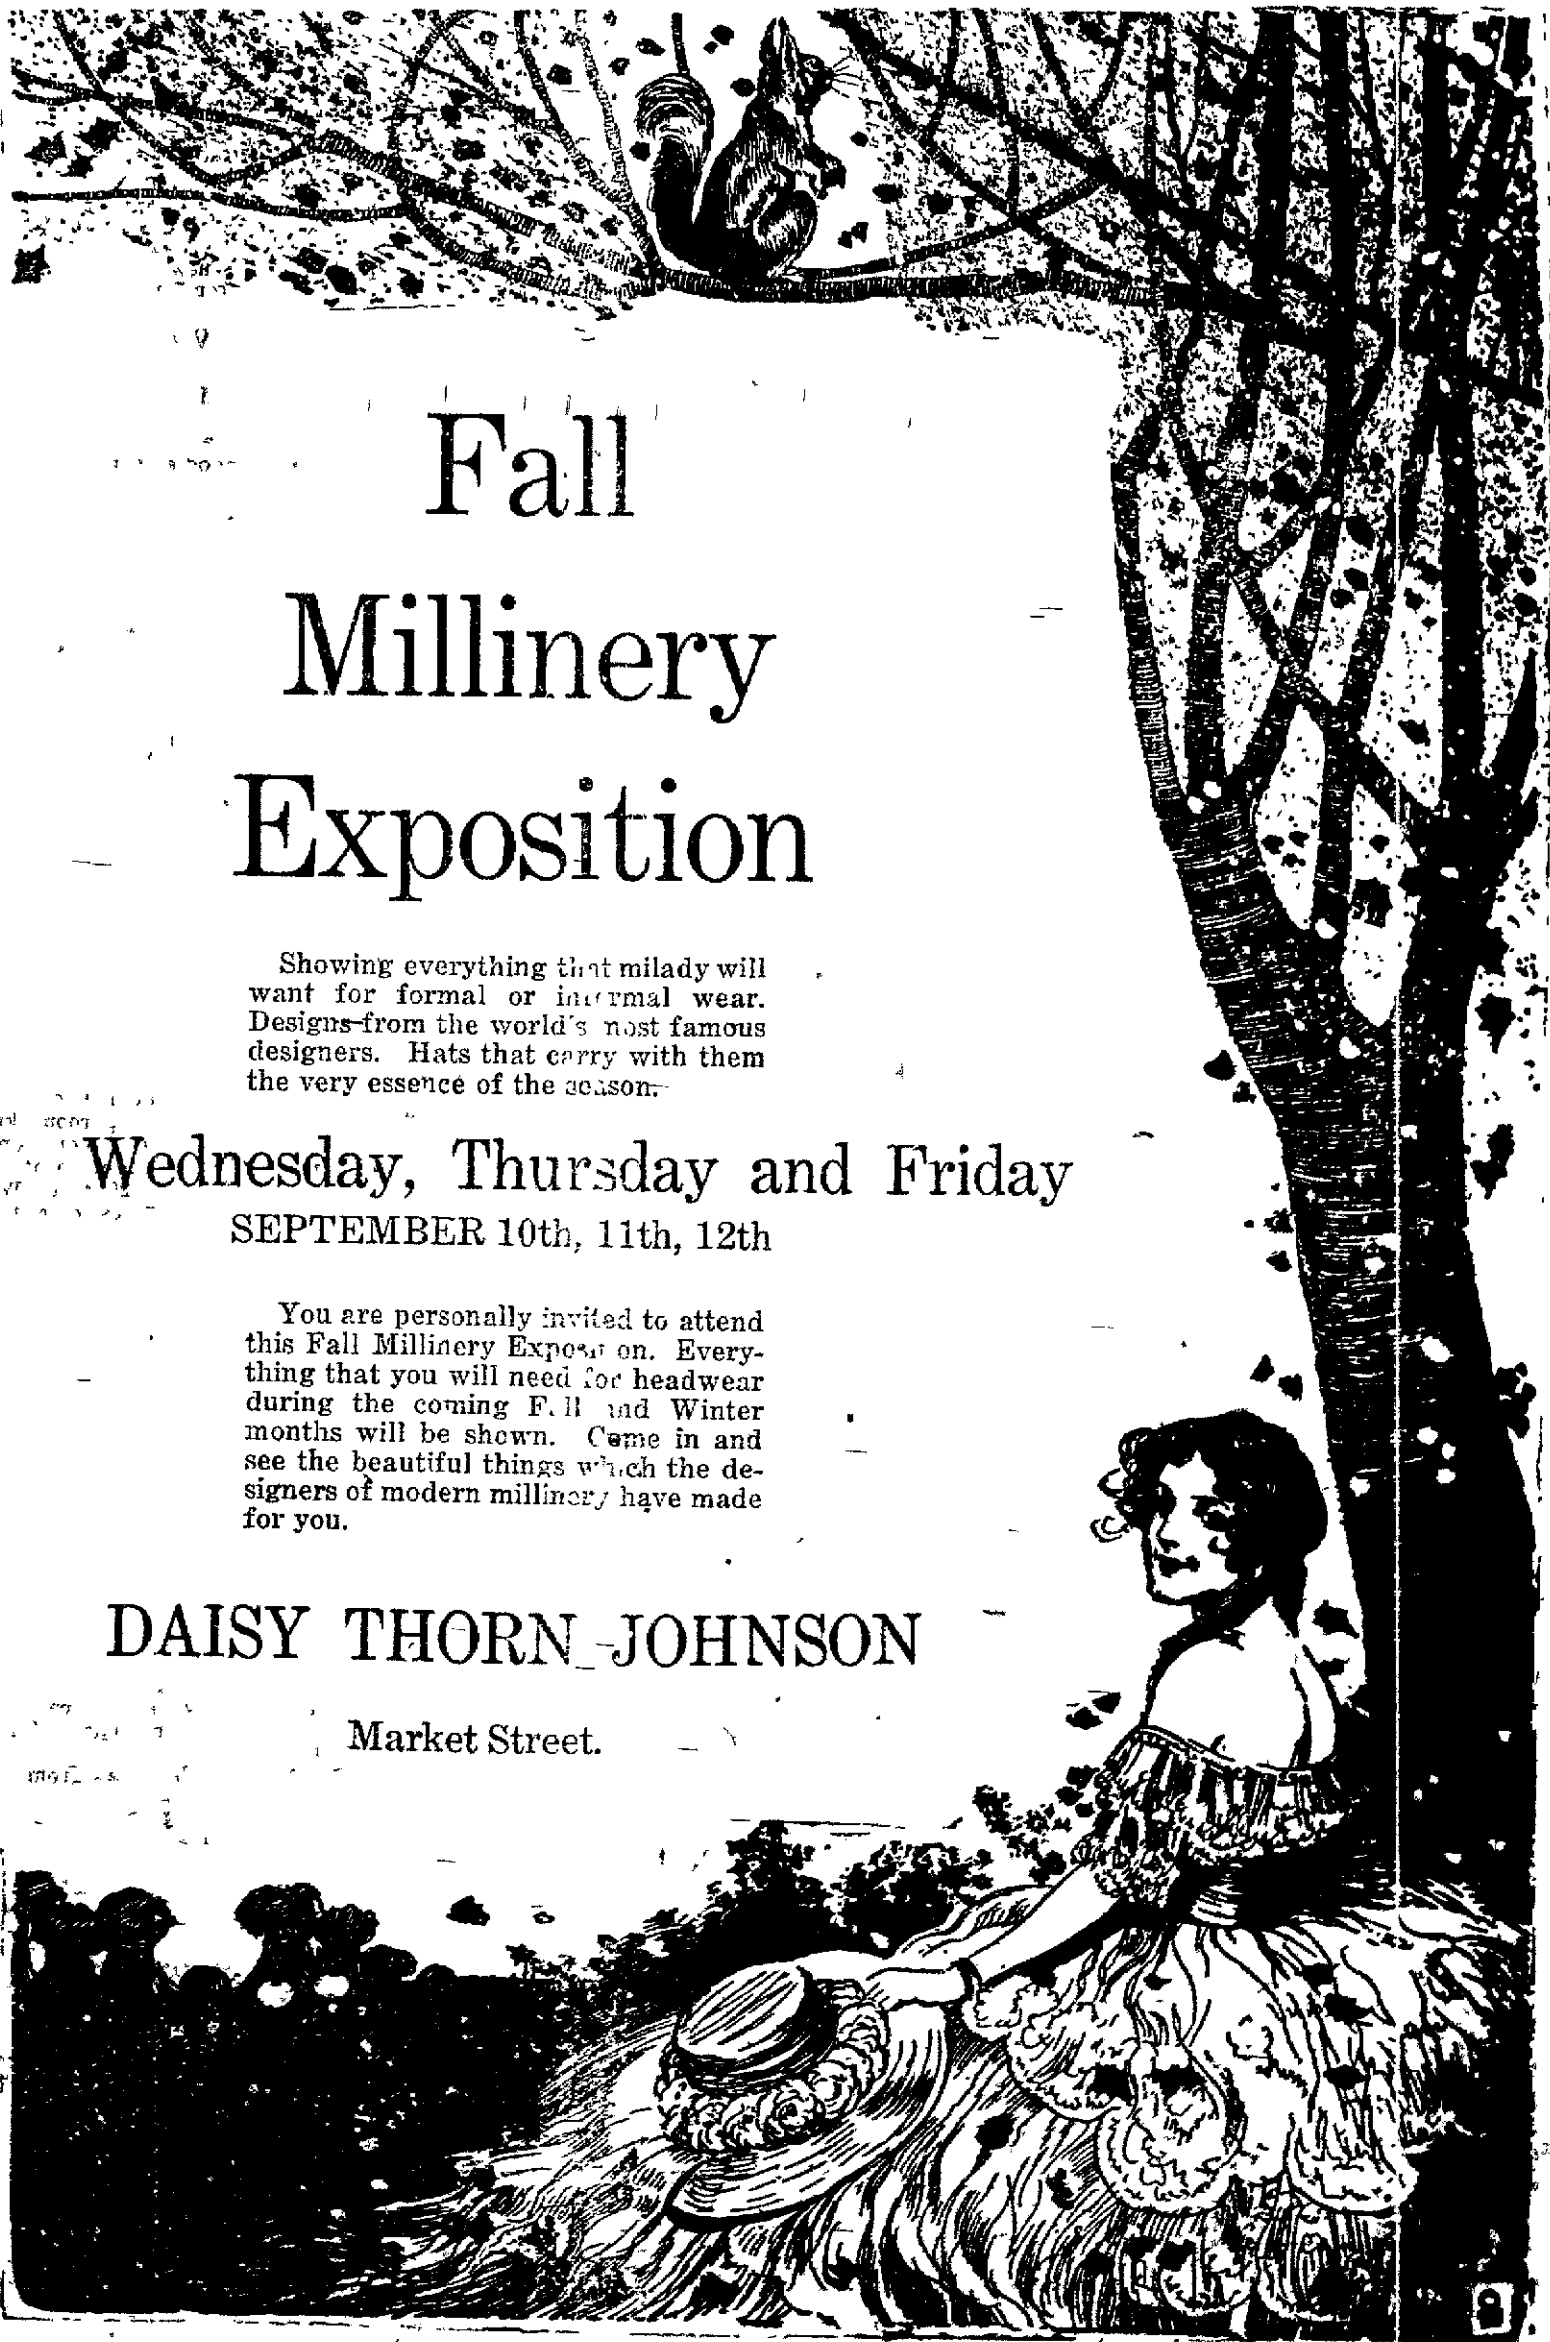

The object of association is to see that the game and fish laws are respected and that Clearfield and Center counties get their proper allotment of game and fish.

Contrast this, if you will, with the mail-order house. There you are merely A NAME. Business is conducted with you on a strictly cash basis, and each and every deal is a cold proposition of dollars and cents. The mail order house is not acquainted with your personal affairs and surroundings. He has no idea of what you could use advantageously, but if he can sell you he will sell you, and your dollar has gone from you and your chances of having it return are slim indeed. That's money that has gone out of circulation as far as you are concerned. But your local dealer, every merchant in Clearfield has more interest in you than that. His transactions with you have the personal touch. He wants you satisfied all the time. And this does not apply merely to your purchases with him, it applies likewise to the community enterprises that are constantly being launched for the betterment of our community as a whole. He puts his money alongside of yours in every such enterprise. But how much does the mail-order house contribute?

You see the point. So let's get together and make Clearfield better for everybody, our neighbors as well as ourselves. Read the ads on this page just as a starter. And watch for this page again next week.

Both Animal and Bird.

One of the strangest animals known is the platypus, a creature inhabiting the river banks of Australia and Tasmania. It resembles both an animal and a bird in that its body and tail are like those of a beaver, while its webbed feet and bill remind one of a duck. It has teeth for chewing its food but it has no external ear, although its hearing is acute. It lays eggs like a turtle, but suckles its young. A specimen of the animal has been placed on exhibition in the National museum, Washington.

Undoubtedly.

"How did he get rich?" "I haven't exact information concerning him, but I venture the statement that he probably made most of his money by mind and his own business."

Speed of Birds

Birds have two flying speeds—a normal rate which is used for every-day purposes and for migration, and an accelerated speed which is used for protection or pursuit.

Big London Bridges.

London bridge, England, cost $10,000,000, is 900 feet long and 54 feet wide, with 100,000 persons passing over it every 24 hours. The lamp posts are made from cannon taken during the Peninsular war. Waterloo bridge, London, which was built in 1811-17, is 1,330 feet long and 48 feet wide. But nothing has ever surpassed, in every detail, the New York and Brooklyn suspension bridge, commenced under direction of J. Roebling in 1870, and opened for foot traffic on May 24, 1883. It is 5,989 feet long, the length of the river span being 1,595 1/2 feet, each land span 970 feet above high water, and cost $15,000,000.

Experience.

Observation more than books, experience rather than persons, are the prime educators. Books and as one has the wit to use them to advantage persons most when seeming not to serve us. Experience converts us to ourselves when books fail us, and this oftenest against our knowledge and consent. And it remains questionable how far our attainments further or hinder Nature's intention, the art of education being still so complicated and incalculable a matter that, with the experience of past times to aid us, not a few of the most striking characters have been formed, untrammeled by the schools, under the more direct and potent influences of life and things, operating under the pressure of necessity and seeming accident.—A. Bronson Alcott.

Pantomime Purely a Roman Idea.

Not until the drama had been established for more than 500 years was the pantomime, one of the sturdiest forms of dramatic art, originated. The drama was the invention of the Greeks, but the pantomime was a purely Roman idea. Two aspiring actors, Pythades and Bathyllus, one of whom was afflicted with throat trouble, gave the first performance of this kind in the year 22 B. C. It was only a makeshift on their part because of the illness of one of the performers, but their audacity was so delighted that they continued with the production of the worthless drama.

Oldest Confection.

The greater part of black licorice is derived from Spain, where it is made from the juice of the plant and mixed with starch to prevent it from melting in hot weather. The licorice plant is a shrub that attains a height of three feet, and it grows wild where its roots reach the water. It flourishes especially on the banks of the Tigris and the Euphrates river. Since the valley of the Euphrates contained one of the earliest civilizations in the world, the probability is that licorice is about the oldest confection of all, and the taste which the boys and girls of today like so well was enjoyed by the youngsters of 3,000 years ago.—Washington Star.

GLOBE FLYERS OFF FOR WASHINGTON IN A DRIVING STORM

By LUTHER A. HUSTON
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., Sept. 9.—Flying "kites" to avoid the dark rain clouds which forced them to land at noon near Aberdeen, Md., the American "round the world" flyers who left New York at 8:37 a. m. arrived over the National Capital at 2:20 o'clock this afternoon.

The flyers accompanied by a squadron of planes which joined them at Aberdeen, passed over Baltimore at 2 p. m. Eastern Standard time. The sky had cleared as the airman approached Baltimore but just as they arrived over the business district, flying 1,000 feet in the air, there was a terrific downpour of rain.

Passing over Bolling Field the airman swung southward, crossing the Potomac river into Virginia and circling over Arlington national cemetery, where they dropped flowers on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

As the flyers passed over Fort Myer, the great artillery guns boomed out a welcome and the cavalry and other troops, drawn up in parade formation, stood rigidly at attention.

After leaving Arlington the flyers crossed the Potomac back into the District of Columbia, circled Lincoln memorial and Washington's monument, the Mall and the Capitol, and then followed Pennsylvania avenue down as far as the White House, from whence they swept out over the northwest residential districts.

Guns in the ellipse in the President's Park in the rear of the White House crashed out a greeting as the airman sped by and thousands of capital residents, on roofs of apartment houses, leaning from windows and crowded in the streets, waved their hats and shouted a tumultuous welcome.

An escort plane piloted the flyers over President Coolidge's automobile at Bolling Field and a great cheer went up.

Bolling Field, Washington, Sept. 9.—Despite a drizzle of rain, a large crowd, assembled shortly before noon by President Coolidge and the members of his cabinet, gathered here today to extend an official welcome to the American round-the-world flyers, now sweeping into Washington from New York.

President Coolidge had his car driven to the edge of the flying field beside a grandstand erected for the use of distinguished visitors.

The army band from the Washington barracks chose this moment to play the national anthem, forcing the President and Mrs. Coolidge to get out of the car and stand at attention in the mud.

The President stood bareheaded while the mud oozed over his patent leather shoes as the strains of the "Star Spangled Banner" fell about the field.

Shortly after noon, the rain ceased entirely and a warm sun came out. When informed that the flyers had been forced down at Aberdeen, Maryland, the President and Mrs. Coolidge decided to lunch at the officers' club here and return later to the flying field.

Washington, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The American round-the-world flyers, en route from New York to Washington, were forced down near Aberdeen, Md., because of a heavy fog, according to advices to the War Department at 12:55 p. m.

Officials were advised by radio at one p. m. that the flyers had hopped off from Aberdeen at 12:40, heading toward Baltimore. The airman ate lunch at Aberdeen and their planes were re-fueled.

Lt. Lowell H. Smith, commanding the squadron, sent a radio message to Bolling Field, saying he was sorry to keep the crowd waiting but that "even world flyers must eat."

CROP PROSPECTS

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9 (INS.)—Prospects of bumper crops in oats, buckwheat, hay and pasture, average yields in peaches, grapes and tobacco but below normal crops in corn, potatoes and apples was the conditions in Pennsylvania, the first of September, the crop report of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture shows.

LEOPOLD WANTS TO BET ON PROSPECTS OF LOEB HANGING

By CARL W. HARRIS
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.)

Chicago, Sept. 9.—"Let's bet on whether or not Dick and I get hanged."

This was the enthusiastic greeting of Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., to newspapermen who visited his cell in county jail today for his last interview before he and his companion, Richard A. Loeb, are marched into closely guarded court room tomorrow at 9:30 to hear Judge John R. Caverly pronounce their sentence for the slaying of Robert Franks.

Leopold was bubbling over with the prospects of the gambling scheme he had evolved. He reached into his pockets and drew out a few bills.

"Here," he cried to one of the reporters, "I'll bet you all I've got and I'll take the end of the bet you say. I'll bet we do or I'll bet we don't. Or better still, we'll make it a 'parlay' and get Dicky and Russell Scott in on it."

Both boys seemed more cheerful today than they have been in the last week. Both admitted that they "would be glad to get it over with."

While the boys chatted blithely with newspapermen, their parents, grief stricken and anxious, were making arrangements to get word of the verdict. It was virtually certain today that neither Mr. nor Mrs. Loeb will be in the court room. Both have been ill at their summer home at Charlevoix and their physicians have said that the shock of hearing Judge Caverly's decision in court might prove fatal.

Whether or not the elder Leopold would be there was problematical but it is expected that he will be in his accustomed place, where for weeks he sat, a silent, heart-broken man, hearing the state's attorney denounce his son as a murderer and watching the "mountain of evidence" on which the prosecution said it would hang the boys, accumulate.

The Loeb family will be represented by Allen Loeb, another son.

FIRST 1925 AUTO TAGS ARE SHIPPED FROM HARRISBURG

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 9 (INS.)—The automobile division of the State Highway Department today shipped its first consignment of 1925 automobile license tags to early applicants. The lot consisted of 150 sets of tags for passenger cars and 40 sets for commercial vehicles.

The 1925 tag is blue, the numerals being gold. The reverse of the 1924 tags.

Although securing of license tags has been simplified, inasmuch as the highway department mails applications to owners on which the blanks have already been filled out, about 40 per cent of the applications so far received for 1925 have lacked the signature of the applicant.

Mrs. E. F. Browncombe of Akron, Ohio, and Miss Dorothy M. Quinn, of Philadelphia who have been visiting their parents and relatives the past week have returned to their respective homes.

G. O. P. ALSO WINS SENATORSHIP AND ALL CONGRESSMEN

Klan Proves to Be Small Factor; Rural Districts Go Strong for the Republican Ticket.

VERY HEAVY VOTE

Augusta, Maine, Sept. 9 (INS.)—Returns from 593 of the State's 633 precincts today gave Ralph O. Brewster of Portland, Republican candidate for Governor a majority of 33,375 votes over William R. Pattangall, of Augusta, his Democratic opponent. The vote stood Brewster 136,648; Pattangall, 103,273.

"My opponent chose to make the Klan an issue, but this was not recognized," Brewster said today, commenting on his election. "The Republican campaign based its appeal solely upon the record of the Republican party in the state and nation and the pledges of its platform."

Latest figures gave U. S. Senator Fernald (Rep.) a plurality of 47,097 votes in his contest for re-election with Fulton J. Redgan, (Dem.)

Augusta, Maine, Sept. 9. (INS.)—Ralph O. Brewster, Republican candidate for Governor, was elected by a majority so sweeping that even his staunchest friends were amazed to-day as the last returns were being tabulated. Brewster's plurality may reach 40,000 when the last votes are counted.

Returns from 549 precincts out of 633 gave Brewster 116,721 votes and his Democratic opponent, William R. Pattangall, 81,681.

Returns from the 71 remaining precincts are expected to bring the total vote above any previous recorded in the state.

The vote for U. S. Senator failed to reveal that any great number of voters took the trouble to split their ballots, showing rather that some 10,000 failed to vote for Senator B. M. Fernald was re-elected, receiving more than 115,000 votes to the 71,000 cast in favor of Fulton J. Redmond, his Democratic opponent.

There are forty-seven cities and towns among the missing precincts but their vote could not possibly change the result. Even Brewster's friends were surprised to find him so strong in the cities. It had been expected his chief strength would be found in the rural districts.

That Pattangall's Ku Klux Klan argument was heeded in cities and towns to some extent was evidenced by the fact that the Republican majorities there were reduced slightly over the vote of 1920, but in country districts, the Republicans widened their margin.

An unusual and unexpected feature was the defeat of both Brewster and Pattangall in their home cities, Portland and Augusta, respectively.

The four Republican Congressmen were re-elected. They are Carroll L. Beedy, first district; Wallace White, second district; John A. Nelson, third district and Ira G. Hersey, fourth district.

Couzens Inquiry Into The Internal Revenue Dept. Will Begin September 17

Washington, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The Senate investigation of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, including the enforcement of the prohibition law, will be reopened on September 17 at 10:30 a. m., it was announced at the Capitol today.

The investigating committee is headed by Senator James Couzens, Republican of Michigan. A program for the inquiry will be laid before the committee at the meeting next week by Earl J. Davis, the special counsel retained by Senator Couzens.

We Have This Fellow's Counterpart Right Here; Ask Rotarians Who Is Their Bravest Member

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 9. (INS.)—Behind the cold hard bark of the North Side police station Philip Spero languished in duaneville today while he held the world's record for coolness in the face of fire. Spero "passed" a policeman when reprimanded for traffic law violation, flung the torn fragments of a court summons tag in the officer's face, and otherwise outraged the dignity of the law until the policeman stepped on the running board of Spero's taxicab with orders "to the hoosgow." Just after Spero was booked for disorderly conduct, he handed the officer a meter receipt and demanded 75 cents for the ride to the station.

ODD FELLOWS WILL PICNIC AT IRVIN PARK ON NEXT THURSDAY

The city of Curwensville, the mecca of Yellow Dogs and a dozen other fraternities who realize the beauties of Irvin Park and appreciate the hospitality of the people of the upriver neighborhood, has been used to some mighty queer doings and odd vicissitudes.

On Thursday of this week, however, there will be nothing queer or unusual, although the Odd Fellows and their families to the number of several hundred will journey there early in the afternoon for the annual outing of Clearfield Lodge. The local committee in charge of the outing report today that thus far they have received 480 acceptances and no doubt there will be a couple of hundred more come into headquarters before the hour of two arrives on Thursday afternoon. The big time is scheduled to begin at 2 o'clock sharp and in order that all appetites be properly whetted the committee has arranged for a full program of sports of an athletic and perspiration invoking variety during the early hours of the afternoon. The cats will be a basket picnic and what Odd Fellow does not love a full basket. Nobody will have to bother with ice cream or coffee as the outing committee will see to it that everybody is serviced with these necessities of a picnic day.

Of course it is desired that as many as can will furnish their own transportation and every Odd Fellow is asked to open up his heart and furnish transportation for all that he can but those who do not have means of going to Curwensville will report at Odd Fellow's Hall early after two o'clock and transportation will be provided. The last car will leave for Irvin Park about 4:30 p. m. so start now and get ready to "be on time." All Odd Fellows in the community are invited.

Judge Gordon Instructs Grand Jury to Stay Away From East'n Penitentiary

Philadelphia, Sept. 9. (INS.)—Because of what he termed the "attitude" of prison officials, Judge James Gay Gordon, instructing the new September grand jury, advised its members not to "stultify" themselves by visiting the Eastern Penitentiary here. "Although you may go and visit this institution if you care to," said the judge, "I think it best you stay away. I am informed the officials have obtained an opinion from the Attorney General of the state that it is not legal for grand juries to visit the Eastern Penitentiary. Whether that opinion is legal or not this court will not now express an opinion."

"This court also understands that these officials have publicly stated that grand juries have no right to go there and have flaunted their findings and for that reason for the present I think it would be better if you stay away."

The judge advised the members to visit the Moyamensing prison, the county prison at Holmesburg, and the house of correction.

VENANGO COUNTY JUDGE GIVES OUT FINE OPINION ON ASSESSMENT JOB

Beginning Monday of this week assessors started in on their important work of making the triennial assessment for Clearfield county. "This is a work that will require several weeks, and requires painstaking efforts on the part of the assessors. In relation to the assessment problem, which has been one before the public for many years, an opinion delivered by Judge Creswell, of Venango county, is of interest. It is as follows:

Venango county is determined that property in that county be assessed at its market value, and Judge Creswell at Franklin declaring that "unequal taxation, which is unjust," read to the grand jury that had just been sworn in an extended opinion on the duties of those who have to do with the apportioning of taxes.

The court laid it down as an absolute command of the law that assessors shall appraise property for tax purposes at the real market value and not as a percentage thereof. Instances of extreme deviation from this were cited, and the penalties for violation of the assessor's oath of office were quoted. The duties of the County Commissioners as a board of revision were detailed, with special emphasis given to their oaths to "equalize" the valuations of property brought before them on appeal.

The court said that there has been a radical departure from what the law requires assessors to do and quote

HORRIBLE MYSTERY INVESTIGATED AT KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Knoxville, Tenn., Sept. 8. (INS.)—Police today took up new leads in the investigation of H. B. Cole, Knoxville's man of mystery, who is wanted to explain the presence of a woman's mutilated and badly decomposed body, found at the rear of his home shortly after his disappearance.

The body had been concealed in an old wash tub, covered with lye, and had been boiled shortly after death, according to Dr. J. J. Greer, one of the examining physicians.

Six months ago Cole is said to have asked a neighbor to help him assemble a skeleton, explaining he had purchased the body of a negro woman who had lost her life in a cabin fire. Dr. Greer said that the body under examination could not have been dead more than six weeks.

Existence of a "death farm," the absence of three employees at the Cole home, and the unexplained absence of Cole's family—all these were under investigation today.

Police were told that Cole had been in the habit of burying bones in a field near his home. They were also supposed to be those of animals, according to neighbors.

MINER'S COMPENSATION BUREAU

Johnstown, Pa., Sept. 7.—A compensation department to handle death and injury claims of its members will be established September 15 by district No. 29, the United Miner Workers, with headquarters in Johnstown. It is announced. Attorney Peter P. Jurchak has been named as superintendent of the new department by President John Brophy. District No. 29 embraces Cambria, Somerset, Bedford, Blair, Clearfield, Huntingdon, Center, Indiana, Armstrong, Jefferson, Clarion, Elk, Cameron and Tioga counties. Mr. Jurchak has been associated until recently with attorney Charles J. Margiotti, of Punxsutawney.

New York-Penna. League Champs to Play Our Own Beauties Here Sept. 17th

The local baseball management has arranged a game of all between the Williamsport team, likely miners of the New York-Pennsylvania League championship, with our own Clearfield and Center League champions. The game will be played at the Clearfield Driving Park on Wednesday, September 17th.

This will be a great opportunity for the fans of this section to measure the class of ball played in the two leagues.

The last time a Williamsport team played in Clearfield "our own" defeated them handily 3 to 1, and we were then very modestly obliged to claim the championship of the world, so the dope made it even so. That game was played following the close of the Tri-State League season of 1907. Williamsport, with Harry Waverton at the helm, had now the Tri-State championship. The Clearfield game was the first exhibition game just two days after the season closed.

"Slim" Salce, who afterwards made much National League baseball history, was Manager Waverton's pitching selection, and while "Slim" did his left handed best Clearfield's sluggers touched him up enough to send 3 runs across, while Williamsport was only able to get to Howard Mittinger, that year's Penn State Ace, for one run.

Our World Championship title was garnered thusly on this wise. The Chicago Nationals were world's champions that year. The Johnstown Tri-State team beat them in a game at their Southern training trip. Williamsport had licked Johnstown and we then put the cleaner on Williamsport, which to our notion made manager Clyde Thompson's Clearfielders champions of the world. We still think it was a proper deduction and a just claim, but the sport writers in all the Tri-State towns knocked several keys off their typewriters "razzing" us for it.

History may repeat in the game of September 17th. At least we hope so. The game will start promptly at 8 o'clock and Rex Fauver will do the twirling for Clearfield.

EPILEPTIC TOPPLES INTO RIVER; QUICK ACTION SAVES HIM

Bert Merritt, who lives just across Moose Creek on the Mt. Joy road, had a very narrow escape from drowning Sunday last. Shortly after noon Mr. Merritt was sitting on the river bank about the outlet from the drain of the Elk Tanning Company's plant, and some distance below the B. R. & P. bridge over the Susquehanna.

Being subject to epileptic fits Mr. Merritt had a seizure and in his paroxysms rolled down the steep bank into the river. A B. R. & P. freight train on its way into the N. Y. C. yards, just below, rolled onto the bridge from DuBois about 12:20 and as the engine neared the east bank of the river the keen eye of Engineer Beatty noted Merritt struggling face downward in the river. He called to Fireman Dougherty that a man was drowning in the river and the latter jumped from the engine and running down the bank jumped into the water, pulled the drowning man ashore and immediately started first aid treatment. He was assisted by his fellow trainmen and others attracted to the scene and later Dr. Yeazey responded to a hurry call for his services.

After working with the nearly drowned man for twenty minutes or a half hour, he recovered sufficiently to be removed to his home, where he is now recovering satisfactorily.

NEW PROBE OF FALL ACTIVITIES ILLEGAL SAYS JUDGE SIDDONS

Washington, Sept. 9. (INS.)—The New Grand Jury investigation instituted by Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, Government Oil Counsel into the official activities of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall, is illegal and invalid, Justice Siddons, of the District of Columbia Supreme court ruled today.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS WONDERFUL MEET LAST EVENING

Some Business of Great Import Discussed; Noted Guests Speak to the Assembled Members.

TWO NEW MEMBERS

The Clearfield Commercial Club started the Fall campaign for a larger and better Clearfield last evening at the Jordan Hotel with President Shillingford presiding. The keen interest shown by the large attendance was a real tribute to the esprit de corps which has been developed in this up-and-doing organization.

Some time ago the Commercial Club took up with the B. R. & P. and the New York Central railroads the matter of rate interchange for Clearfield. Both of these roads have put the rate interchange into effect but the Pennsylvania has not yet seen fit to join the two pioneers. It was agreed that the club send a delegation to Harrisburg to place the matter before the Interstate Commerce Commission in order that the matter may be cleared up.

The Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway committee with J. Paul Frantz as their leader, brought up the subject of new signs at the entrances to Clearfield. Since the change in Route 5, as the Lakes-to-the-Sea Highway has been designated by the State Highway Department, many tourists have gone through the city without knowing anything about the centre of the business section. It is the plan of the Lakes-to-the-Sea committee to have the present signs re-lettered, giving the tourist directions to the business section, hotels and garages.

The Civic Affairs committee reported that the installation of the boulevard lighting system for the center of the city was an assured fact and

Re-Opening Of Pleasant Valley Church on Sunday Will Be Worth Attending

Great preparations are under way in the congregation of the United Brethren Church at Pleasant Valley for the re-opening of their church after having been remodeled and renovated. The Pleasant Valley people, determined that their spiritual life shall keep pace with the progressive development of that community, have worked wonders with the old church. Guarding carefully against ostentatious display but leaving nothing undone that is required as a tribute to the Master, the committee composed of A. B. Lansberry, Franklin Pearce and John G. Mains have done a work for which they have the thanks of the community.

Next Sunday will be observed as re-opening day and it will be a day rich in fellowship and brotherhood. Services will be held at ten o'clock in the morning, again in the afternoon and in the evening. It is the desire of the Pleasant Valley congregation that old residents, friends and neighbors join with them in these services, also with the lunch that will be served without charge for the convenience of all comers. The ladies of the congregation are taking care of the lunch feature. All the religious services will be in charge of Dr. J. S. Fulton, superintendent of the conference, and he will be assisted by Revs. Albion, Hosmer, Moses, Bittner, pastor of the church, and two beloved boys of the neighborhood, Rev. O. M. and Rev. Shuey Wilson.

The last word of the committee is "everybody welcome."

AMERICAN LEGION BAND REHEARSAL TONIGHT

It is very important that every member of the American Legion band attend rehearsal this evening. The importance of it is to be taken and the work for the coming winter program is to be discussed.

At the Penn Public Service Corporation had very liberally offered to install the system on a cost basis.

The club guests for the evening were J. Mitchell Chase, state commander of the American Legion, and Hon. A. O. Heck of Coudersport, who is presiding at the September term of court in conjunction with Judge Chase.

Commander Chase gave the club an interesting and instructive talk on the aims and purposes of the American Legion. Commander Chase made a stirring plea for the club as a whole and the individual members in particular to use every influence in procuring aid for the disabled World War veteran, whether his disabilities were a direct result of the veteran's service to his country or has developed since his discharge from the nation's army.

Mrs. Paul Stauffer, with Mrs. James M. Gallaher at the piano, gave some very pleasing vocal numbers, among them being the national anthem which

REARICK ZOO WILL BE ON EXHIBIT AT CLEARFIELD FAIR

Game Keeper L. D. Rearick, who has been located at Kennedy Park since the past three or four years, and who put the place on the map, and no mistake about it, during those years, was in town today getting necessary repairs and supplies for the ten-mile trap line he maintains and about the game refuge.

Mr. Rearick's well-stocked zoo continues to attract visitors to his mountain top resort, more than one thousand people braving the notoriously bad Penfield road to visit Rearick yesterday. At that the road is in better shape than it has been for some time. Many thousands of people have visited Kennedy Park since Rearick started exhibiting the denizens of the wild that came to his hand.

So well has his exhibition been received and so much favorable comment was given the State Game Commission over the innovation that it has opened a new field for them in the education of our people to the possibilities of wild life conservation and propagation and the Game Commission now has an exhibit modeled after Mr. Rearick's zoo that is showing at the different County Fairs throughout the State, in charge of Chief Trapper G. E. Logne and an assistant, who also give trapping exhibitions or lessons each day at the fairs.

The patrons of the Clearfield County Fair will be privileged to see Mr. Rearick and his collection of wild animals and birds in action at the Clearfield County Fair, as the State Game Commission felt it would be like "hauling coals to New Castle" to send the other State exhibit to Clearfield when it was possible to have the pioneer and originator of the idea and his very interesting collection, at the big Clearfield Fair, which opens September 23rd.

Accordingly, Mr. Rearick has been directed to have his zoo at the fair and already handsome and commodious quarters have been placed at his disposal and this display will be one of the features of the fair, containing as it does, more than twice as many wild animals and birds as are in the

Baron Katsuhira From Japan To The United States

Tokio, Sept. 9.—(INS).—It was reported here today that Baron Katsuhira Matsui, foreign minister in the last imperial cabinet, has been appointed ambassador in the United States, succeeding M. Ezaki, who returned to Japan following the passage of the Asiatic immigration exclusion bill by the American Congress.

Baron Matsui refused to confirm or deny the report and the foreign office evaded making a direct denial.

ODDS AND ENDS AND THINGS

By J. D. C.

In 1923 the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company paid out $724,000 in homicide claims and came to the conclusion that it was time to look into the murder statistics of the United States. It found, first, that our homicide rate is six times that of Canada in proportion to population and seventeen times that of England.

The company proceeded to inquire into 146 homicide cases for 1923 among its policy-holders, concerning which it was possible to ascertain all the facts. It discovered 32 so-called "justifiable homicides." Among the remaining 114 instances there were 69 indictments. Of the 45 cases in which there were no indictments, one-third of the assailants were still at large, 22 had committed suicide and 8 were dismissed on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Of the 69 indicted, 11 were never tried. Sixteen were tried and declared not guilty. There was 1 mistrial. Of the 41 judged guilty, 25 are serving time, 3 are being held for a new trial or pending an appeal, 1 has been fined and 1 executed.

Pictured rocks scattered across the American continent from Hudson Bay to Puget Sound, deciphered by Olaf Apstol, prove, he declares, that Norse explorers established colonies in the Pacific Northwest nearly five centuries before Christopher Columbus discovered America.

Mr. Apstol, a Norwegian scientist has conducted investigations into the early Norse migrations for 30 years. Characters carved and painted on mountain cliffs of the Northern United States, heretofore regarded as the work of Indians, he declares, are the records of early Norse explorers. Figures of men, birds and beasts he has identified as signs of the zodiac by which, taken in conjunction with astronomical scales in the same configurations, he declares he is able to fix, to the month and day, when they were recorded.

"Astronomical calculations and records in the chronograms or signs show that the first visits were made in the year 1010," Mr. Apstol said. "Appearances of runic letters similar to old Norse writing first drew my attention to the signs. It was then I discovered that the birds, men and other figures which had been thought to be merely caricatures, were really astronomical signs."

The earliest expedition to the Pacific Northwest, according to Mr. Apstol's interpretation of the monuments, was led by a man named Vitell, called Lippon by the aborigines. Four other expeditions followed. The last, led by one Knut, who came in 1362, still more than 300 years before Columbus' voyage.

"One party of explorers came through the mountain passes of Montana and down the Spokane Valley," the scientist declared, "leaving the Cascade Mountains many stone records. The earliest party of which I have record settled on both sides of Puget Sound, later moving on to the Rogue River Valley in Oregon and to what now is Eureka, Cal., where, outnumbered by the Indians, they were forced to migrate."

"Many battles were fought between the aborigines and the explorers. There are visible records that with superior weapons the Norsemen were generally victorious. They carried bows, arrows, axes, swords and daggers."

In further substantiation of his theory of early Norse colonization of the Pacific Northwest, Mr. Apstol declares many geographical names of the region, heretofore considered of Indian origin are derivations of Nordic words. Spokane, he says, comes from "spa kane," Nordic for "spoken." Idaho he translates from "da ha," Nordic for "is that she?" Going further East he makes Sioux

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I did not intend to supply powders to women. My only idea was to furnish them my greatest beauty help. But thousands of women have urged me, by letter and in person, to tell them the powders I use.

Like all my friends on the stage and in movies, I use very costly powders. I have had them made to my order, and they cost me $5 per box. Our careers depend on our looks, and nothing is too costly.

But I have persuaded the makers to offer these powders at ordinary prices. I order them in quantities, under my name. I offer them at my expense to girls and women who desire the best. Now all druggists and toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Powders. There are two kinds: For myself I prefer a clinging powder, a gold cream powder, based on my Youth Cream. It is enduring. That Youth Cream Powder costs $1. But many women prefer a light and fluffy powder. If you want that kind, it costs but 50 cents. Both kinds come in three shades—white flesh and brunette.

So far as I know, these powders are the finest in existence. You may be sure that if anyone produced a better powder I would get it quickly. Any one who uses common powders will gain a new conception of what powders should be.

Let me send you a sample. Just mail this coupon and tell me the kind you want.

Constipation lays you wide open to other diseases—relieve it with Kellogg's Bran

Don't take chances with constipation! This terrible ailment can send poisons into your system which may lead to serious diseases. The longer these poisons accumulate, the more dangerous they become. Begin at once to free your system from them.

Eat Kellogg's Bran. If eaten regularly, it is guaranteed to relieve the most chronic cases of constipation, or your grocer will return your money. It is nature's own way to make the intestine function naturally and regularly—for Kellogg's Bran acts exactly as nature acts. It makes forever unnecessary the use of habit-forming drugs and pills.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, has proved successful when all else has failed. This is because Kellogg's is ALL bran. Doctors everywhere agree that only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective—they recommend Kellogg's Bran.

Eat at least two tablespoonsfuls daily—in chronic cases with every meal. You will like it. You will enjoy the delicious nut-like flavor—the exclusive Kellogg's flavor.

Eat Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumpled, with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in wonderful bran muffins, bread, griddle cakes and other recipes given on every package.

Kellogg's Bran is the road back to health. It is made in Battle Creek and is served in individual packages at the leading hotels and clubs everywhere. Ask for it at your restaurant. It is sold by all grocers.

PARTISAN SMOKE

Tobacco, the common leveller, is by way of turning partisan. Or rather, smoking utensils are.

General Dawes seems to have started it all, though quite unintentionally. His famous underslung pipe, by its queerness of design and its ingenious and inexplicable mode of operation, awakened such widespread interest that it was coming to be regarded almost as a party fetish. That was a challenge to the Democrats and to the state famous alike for Democracy and corn. A Nebraska citizen therefore sent Governor Bryan a fine specimen of corn cob pipe, with which to offset the "trick pipe" of General Dawes, and suggested it as a Democratic emblem. Governor Bryan gratefully accepted it, and although he explains that he has sworn off smoking and doesn't intend to start again, he recommends the model to all fellow-Democrats who have no such scruples.

So now it seems to be up to Senator Wheeler to figure out some new smoking device for the Progressives. When that is done, let the champions of the three parties proceed to smoke each other out.

THE NEW COMMON LABOR

For the benefit of those who are worrying about how America is going to get on without the alien hordes who used to furnish our common labor, James H. Collins in a late Saturday Evening Post has figures to allay their fears.

In 1880, one horsepower of steam per wage earner was used. Now, in factories, about four horsepower per laborer is used, and in all industrial activities new forms of power have almost entirely taken the place of the less efficient "man-engines".

In road-building, "no further back than three years ago, Italians by the half-hundred swarmed on the job. Today they come in gangs of a half-dozen, bringing machines that do the work several times as fast and a good deal better!"

In government service there are too many workers, and much work is slackly done. "If only 15 per cent of the government employees were shifted into other occupations, that would far more than make up for the loss of immigration under the new law." This is a matter of management rather than of mechanics. The two work hand in hand.

In the south, the "darky-and-mule" type of farming was helpless against the boll weevil. Scientific farming is making headway against it, with less man-power.

In the home, also, mechanics and management are taking the place of the immigrant. Machines in the home do much work. Machines out of the home do much. Scientific planning of housework as a business is doing the rest.

The idea that the native American will not perform common labor because it is rough and dirty, says Mr. Collins, is a superstition. He'll do anything if you give him power to do it with, although "it will still be rough and dirty—running an air drill or a steam shovel is no clerical job."

There may be something in this. The native American certainly loves the sense of power and skill that handling power machinery gives him. And he likes any job that pays him enough to give him a generous living.

Work is much better done with power machines plus brains than with mere muscle. And some new kind of power machine, or improvement on an old one, is being invented every minute.

In the Courts

The Aetna Life Insurance Company, by their attorneys Kramer & Kramer, entered suit in Clearfield county courts yesterday against the Bee Hive Coal Mining Company of Houtdale, in an effort to recover $1034.40 alleged to be due on a compensation insurance policy issued to the coal company. The policy covered the employees of the company during 1922. When taken out the payments were based on an annual premium of $2.02 per employee and was paid for originally on the basis of a $5,000 yearly pay roll. The coal company paid out $22,000 in wages during 1922 but refused to pay the difference in premium based upon the increased pay roll.

The September term criminal court will open on Monday, September 15th and District Attorney Arnold has listed 98 new cases for trial. The list has been divided by the District Attorney into four parts. Part I is scheduled to be disposed of between Sept. 15th and 17th, and is made up of 30 cases.

Part II has 12 cases on the list for trial and will be disposed of from Sept. 18th to 20th.

Part III is scheduled to start September 29th and extend to October 1st. There are 22 cases scheduled for trial during this period among which is that of Mrs. Alameda Hall, the abductress of little Billy Parker from the Clearfield Children's Home.

Part IV is listed for October 2d, 4th and is expected to dispose of 34 cases.

Of the 98 cases scheduled for trial as above 50 are for violations of the liquor law. Violations of the motor law are 15 in number, while there are 10 crimes against morality on the list.

Paul M. Swales, by his attorney Miller & Hartwick, entered suit in Probationary Reformatory office yesterday against J. A. and E. A. Moore for the purpose of recovering possession of one-half of a 12-foot alley which the Moores closed by building a garage thereon. Damages to the extent of $1,000 are alleged by the closing of the alley.

Market News

New York, Sept. 9 (INS).—Bulls in the stock market staged an impressive demonstration in the opening trading today, based on the Republican victory in Maine. Leading stocks were marked up from one to five points in an effort to catch the unwary bears who had neglected to cover their commitments in the sharp run-up of prices yesterday afternoon.

Not for many months has the market seen such extensive gains in first prices of speculative stocks, nor such general gains extending over the entire speculative list. The high priced industrials with pool sponsorship were given a sharp boost. General Electric gained about four points. American Water Works five points. Cast Iron Pipe, Marine preferred, Baldwin, American Woolen, United States Steel Etc., one to three points. The shorts were caught napping and belated covering was forced in some stocks at considerable advance in prices.

GRAIN CLOSING

Chicago, Sept. 9. (INS).—After a strong opening, the grain market became unsettled today, sagged off in the later hours of trading and closed irregular.

Wheat finished unchanged to 3/4 off. Corn closed 1 1/4 to 1 3/4 up. Oats finished 3/4 off to 3/8 cents up. Fear of what the government crop report, to be issued this afternoon might show, was reflected in the day trading. Wheat advanced early on higher cables but met with profit taking on the bulge.

WHAT IS SUCCESS?

By ROGER W. BABSON

World-Famous Statistician and Business Authority

XI.—DEVELOPING SUCCESS QUALITIES

When one is grounded religiously in the right occupation, and is associated with the right kind of people, and still is unable to get on, what remedy has he? The answer to this question brings us back again to those six important qualities, namely, Integrity, Industry, Intelligence, Initiative, Intensity, and Interest in one's work. If a certain amount of material prosperity is necessary to happiness, then a certain amount of these intangible qualities is necessary to secure a requisite amount of prosperity. Our consciences, health, wives, occupations, tastes, and friends are largely of our own making, but for the development of these six intangible qualities we are dependent upon prayer, the contact of our spiritual selves with God.

Let me illustrate by discussing Integrity. We will assume that a lack of integrity is one of our weaknesses. As previously suggested, many persons who are naturally honest will probably need to develop some other of these six qualities rather than the "Integrity" factor.

Developing Integrity

Integrity may be inherited or acquired. Both integrity and dishonesty are largely matters of habit. The habit life through fear of punishment, fear of failure, or fear of ridicule. People are not dishonest through choice or determination. People who are weak, physically or mentally, are most liable to fall into dishonest habits. People who are naturally strong physically and mentally are usually independent of the opinions and criticisms of others and hence are usually honest. It is easier for those physically strong and in good health to be honest. The way in which a child is treated by its parents and the training a boy receives from his first employer, do much to determine the honesty of the man in later years. All this means that integrity is largely a habit and can be acquired or developed if one so desires.

It should surely be remembered, however, that each of us must be either honest or dishonest. There is no neutral ground. We are daily acquiring either habits of honesty or habits of dishonesty. Considering the vital importance which integrity bears to success, we all should strive to acquire honest habits. What can one do who desires to develop greater integrity? There is only one sure way and that is through prayer. Before commencing a conversation—before making a statement, before writing a letter—repeat this silent prayer!

"Oh, God, I want to be honest. Make me honest right now. Give me courage to tell the absolute truth—knowing that the truth is best for every one in the end."

This does not mean that we need to be blunt and thoughtless in speaking the truth as to hurt the feelings of any one. We should use the Golden Rule in connection with integrity as in every other connection. Integrity, like all else, can be used or abused, but we should always be honest in spirit. Moreover, when we do not tell all the truth, our retention should be in the interest of some one else and never for personal gain.

Developing Industry

Let us consider another illustration, Industry, for example. No man ever made a success because he was made to work. People do not become successful if they must be forced to work. Industry, not forced labor, is one of the few iron stones of success. But, as we have seen, industry is not a virtue in itself. It is a virtue only when it is directed toward a goal. A man who does not love his work, what can he do? Frankly, he must do one of two things. He must either change into an occupation which he does like, or else he must acquire a like for his present work.

Changing occupation is rather risky. Moreover, it becomes more risky every time it is attempted. The willing stone gathers no moss. The willing saying-over-shoulder way it is interpreted. The young man who has correctly analyzed himself and entered a line for which he is fitted and is with good religious people should make no change later in life. If the analysis shows he should go into merchandising, it makes little difference whether he sells provided it is something which makes people healthier, happier, or more prosperous. It is nonsense for one to say he "loves" the grocery which he is fitted can always acquire business, or "hates" the clothing business, or "loves" the clothing business. A man may logically love merchandising and hate manufacturing or vice versa; but if a man does not like the selling of one legitimate product, it will be no easier for him to sell any other product. Or, if he does not like the manufacturing of one needed article, it will be no easier for him to manufacture any other article. Hence, he might just as well learn to like the business in which he is already engaged.

Are You In The Wrong Job?
The one exception to this is the man who is fitted can always acquire business, or "loves" the clothing business, or "loves" the clothing business. A man may logically love merchandising and hate manufacturing or vice versa; but if a man does not like the selling of one legitimate product, it will be no easier for him to sell any other product. Or, if he does not like the manufacturing of one needed article, it will be no easier for him to manufacture any other article. Hence, he might just as well learn to like the business in which he is already engaged.

Are You Doing Too Much?
With every asset there follows a responsibility; with every action there is a reaction. Men of genius are proverbially weak in certain ways. Men with energy and vision have far greater

Developing Intensity

The most successful business men are those who concentrate on producing one product; men who merchandise but do not manufacture, or men who manufacture and let some one else merchandise are the most successful. As we spread out, we become thinner and thinner until our efforts in any one direct line are of little avail. So long as all goes well, a man can swing many different things; but when one or more of them goes wrong or should the man himself become ill, then comes trouble. Many failures of brilliant men are due to the fact that they were ill when something went wrong, or something went wrong because they were ill. Hence Intensity of Concentration is most surely one of the necessary qualities for success. It is a quality which should be carefully watched by both young and old. The young man can get a successful start only by concentrating all of his time, thought, and energy on one line of business, and by knowing that business thoroughly.

This temptation to "spread out" can be met and conquered only through prayer. Constant and fervent prayer is the only antidote for this poison; it is the only way successfully to overcome it. "Lead us not into that tempting speculation, but deliver us from going into that new enterprise." This is our prayer. We should keep away from all people who have new propositions to offer and avoid "promoters" as one would avoid smallpox or darts.

Intelligence And Interest

This same reasoning applies to the remaining qualities—Intelligence, Interest in one's work, and a general sympathy for and interest in others. Teachers and business men are correct in saying that these six qualities cannot be taught in books. They are spiritual qualities, and as such must come as a part of our lives and experience. As one cannot insure electricity with a quartz measure, so one cannot estimate or teach spiritual qualities by mathematical formulas. The great mistakes of many writers on success has been their failure to recognize the close relationship between success and spiritual development.

(1) Success is true happiness. Success and happiness are spiritual rather than material. Hence, success can be lost or won, but cannot be bought or sold like a commodity; neither can it be weighed or measured. The sooner this fact is understood by all classes—rich and poor—the better off the world will be.

(2) A certain amount of material prosperity is necessary to happiness under modern conditions. This type of success varies, however, with the age and the community in which one lives. An excess of material prosperity is a detriment rather than a help. So long as the acquiring of material prosperity aids one in developing spiritually, so long do these material things serve as an aid; but when they begin to retard spiritual growth, then they are detrimental to true success.

(3) The fundamental law of success and happiness is: For every action there is an equal and opposite reaction. This means that we can succeed only as we help others to succeed. It means that our own characters, health, and prosperity are dependent upon having others righteous, healthy, and prosperous. It means that we will reap what we sow.

(4) The structure which we call success is based upon a religious foundation. Success requires a clear conscience, good health, a righteous employer or business associates, and a helpful wife; but the structure itself is built of such qualities as Integrity, Industry, Intelligence, Intensity, Initiative and Interest.

(5) These six success qualities are spiritual in nature and cannot be learned from books or purchased with money. They can be developed and acquired only through prayer. Thus it is evident that this whole question of success is most intimately bound up with a man's religion. In the last analysis, true success is really the reaction of true religion in our lives, our homes, and our business.

who went into the wrong line of work at the beginning either by force of circumstances, without analyzing his own characteristics, or who analyzed them incorrectly. If a correct analysis, later in life, shows that one has made a distinct mistake in selecting his life work, then he is justified in changing. A man or woman must be industrious to be either successful or happy. Furthermore, employment statistics clearly state that two distinct changes in all a man should ever make. As all lines of business have about equal opportunities in the long run, his only chance for changing is an unfitted for the special group with which he is allied or the character of the people with whom he is working.

This brings us to the question, what shall the person do who is in the line of business for which he is fitted, but who still does not like to work? There is only one help for such a man and that help is prayer. A man who is in the one of the four basic groups for temptations than those who have not this energy and vision. It is only natural that those who are the most brilliant, should be tempted to spread out too much and become involved in too many undertakings. The able business man sees so many opportunities where ever he goes and whatever he does, that it is very difficult for him to refrain from seizing one now and then. He sees possibilities in almost every person whom he meets. It is largely his ability to see these opportunities that make him a successful business man. However every man has a limited amount of time and energy, and he undertakes too much. He gets overloaded and falls down. He gets down because they do not concentrate on one task and stick to that one task. They are like a boy carrying many bundles—one more than he can possibly hold. He is always dropping one, and as he picks that up he drops another. This brings us an illustration of Intensity.

BUSINESS TO THE RESCUE

By FLORENCE DAVIES
Some time ago we were discussing mother substitutes in this column, and decided that there were none.

But Ida Tarbell, the well known historian and essayist, has discovered a substitute for some of the omissions of the modern mother.

Our young people of today lack discipline, Miss Tarbell believes, but she sees in the office, the shop and the factory a means of supplying this discipline.

"The best training the modern girls

buying on the higher cables.

Corn started 3-5 to 1 1-8 cents higher with general commission house buying and limited offerings until the advance had been made.

Oats started 1-4 to 7-8 higher with September leading the advance.

get now is in the office, factory and shop" said Miss Tarbell in a recent interview. "I have seen hundreds of girls in factories I have visited learning promptness, exactness and consideration for others."

While this is saying a good word for the factories, it seems a little hard on the mothers.

Isn't it too bad that the office and the factory have to do what the mothers should have done for their children in their earlier years?

Mothers seem to have taken a partial vacation from the rigors of old-fashioned discipline, and Miss Tarbell doesn't believe that the result is wholly good. If the girls of today lack mental discipline, and Miss Tarbell implies that they do, it isn't the fault of the girls. It's the fault of the mothers, says Miss Tarbell. Furthermore, she believes that the trouble lies in this new creed of Freedom which has taken hold of us these days. We have lately become so enthralled with the idea of personal liberty and self expression that mothers, Miss Tarbell believes, are afraid to encroach upon the perfect freedom of their children. The result often is that those same children later have to learn control and self-discipline in the hard school of experience.

The girl who goes into an office or shop soon learns that she may only enjoy freedom within certain limits. She learns that the rights of others must be observed if she would claim rights for herself and that fellow workers and employers expect the self-discipline of promptness and responsibility.

Unfortunately, every girl doesn't get the benefit of this sort of discipline. Some of them who imagine that they are MORE fortunate than the others grow up and marry and attempt to found homes before they have learned to govern their spirits or to work fairly with others.

The result is bound to be disastrous. Perhaps if the modern mothers are taking the old fashioned job of disciplining a little less seriously than the mothers of old, it is a happy thing that we do live in an industrial age, and in an age of individual economic responsibility, so that the shop and office can teach our young folks some of the things which the mothers seem to be overlooking.
